HOUSE TO INVESTIGATE CHARGES OF BRIBERY

Inquiry Ordered in Case Involving Two Members Accused by Jury.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—The House of Representatives today ordered a special investigation of charges against two members of the House, who were accused by a jury of having received bribes from the Standard Oil Company.

The House voted 219 to 197 to order the investigation. The vote was taken after a long debate on the propriety of the action.

The investigation will be conducted by a special committee of the House, which will report to the full body at a later date.

The charges against the two members were made public in a report by the grand jury of the Southern District of New York.

The report stated that the two members had received bribes from the Standard Oil Company in exchange for their support of certain legislation.

The Standard Oil Company has denied the charges and has offered to pay a fine of $100,000 to settle the matter.

The House committee will hold hearings on the charges and will attempt to determine whether the members were guilty of bribery.

The investigation is expected to take several months to complete, and the results will be reported to the House at that time.

The Standard Oil Company has expressed its confidence in the integrity of the two members and has stated that it is willing to cooperate with the investigation.

The House committee will also investigate the role of the Standard Oil Company in the bribery scheme, if it is found to have been involved.

The investigation is expected to be a landmark case in the history of the House, as it will be the first time that the House has ordered an investigation of its members.

The Standard Oil Company has a long history of controversy, and this case is expected to bring further attention to its practices.

The House committee will be led by a member of the House, who will be responsible for conducting the investigation and reporting to the full body.

The investigation is expected to be a thorough one, and the House is determined to see that justice is done in this case.

The Standard Oil Company has a long history of success, but this case is expected to bring a new level of scrutiny to its operations.

The House committee will be expected to complete its investigation by the end of the year, and the results will be reported to the House at that time.

SERGEANT TELLS

CHIEF HE LIES AND GETS AWAY WITH IT

And What's More, Becard's Statement to Hoagland Was During His Trial Before Board.

HEARING ENDS IN ACQUITTAL

Becard Explains He Was Selling Police Circus Tickets in Locked Bar When It Was Raided.

To tell the Chief of Detectives he lies and then resign—a detective-sergeant might do that; but to tell the Chief a lie to his face and in the presence of the Board of Police Commissioners as John Becard did yesterday afternoon and then be acquitted of all charges—was one of the saints' miracles, as many a good policeman will remark today.

The trial of Sergeant Becard and his partner, Patrolman Mason, was full of strange things. Hence the following passage brought it to the surprise:

"Sergeant Becard turned his back on me," Chief Hoagland testified, "and I felt insulted and humiliated. So I walked over to him and said, 'Sergeant, when I treat you like a gentleman, I want you to treat me as such.'"

Becard replied: "I never did any such thing to you, Becard."

"I did not. I did not use profanity, nor say anything like that," "uttering a deliberate lie."

The voice of Sergeant Becard was heard then, Senator Walsh was sitting downstairs, waiting for me.

At that time, McLean said, he was greatly disturbed. "One minute he was going to go right down and appear before you (Senator Walsh) and the next minute he was afraid you were going to drag him there," said the publisher.

The ex-Secretary had wished to confer with lawyers, and then kept changing his mind.

Senator Walsh switched his back to the Atlantic City conference. There, too, the witness said, he was snubbed, broken down.

The witness then was asked and the committee adjourned until 10 a. m. tomorrow.

White House Employs on Stand. H. R. McKenna, chief doorman at the White House, testified that the committee was called before the committee and questioned about a telegram he sent to Edward R. McLean in Florida, informing him of Secretary Stimp's departure for the South. He said McLean had asked him to send such a notification and that Stimp had said it would be all right to do so.

E. W. Stirling of the White House secret service detail, who also had communicated with the publisher by telephone, followed McKenna on the stand.

The committee then called E. W. Stirling, chief of communications at the White House, who operated the Washington end of McLean's private wire to Palm Beach.

Session Opens With Reading of Denial by Stewart.

Senator Ladd, as acting chairman, opened today's session by reading a telegram from R. W. Stewart of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, denying that he had been in three rivers, N. M., in 1921 for conference with A. B. Fall, Harry F. Sinclair and others regarding naval reserve leasing. A report of such a conference had been made public.

County School Principal

Convicted in Whipping Case

MISS PHYLLIS PERKINS.

Testimony That Principal of Fairview District Used Different Strap From One Authorized.

An official strap, approved by the School Board of the Fairview district, Jennings, and purchased by the principal, Miss Phyllis Perkins, on the board's authorization, hung on the wall in the principal's office. It was a broad, soft strap.

There was another strap on the wall, narrower and tougher, and it was this strap which drew the apprehensive gaze of the boys and girls who were so unlucky as to be summoned before Miss Perkins.

The narrow, tough strap on the wall, having made an irrelevant remark in his teacher's hearing, was sent into the office.

Will Appeal $1 Fine.

A justice court jury in Clayton yesterday heard Virgil tell how Miss Perkins used the narrow, tough strap on him two days in succession. They heard a physician testify that Virgil had been afflicted with nephritis later, and that the whipping might have had something to do with it. They saw Miss Perkins, a person of resolute and pedagogical appearance, demonstrate the use of the strap in corporal punishment—she made the demonstration with the soft official strap, not with the other.

And they inflicted a fine of $1, from which Miss Perkins will appeal.

Her lawyer, in his argument to the jury, said that a fine, even of $1, would "lose" Miss Perkins her life certificate as a teacher. She is a graduate of the Cape Girardeau Normal School.

Children of the school, summoned as witnesses, showed some trepidation as they faced Miss Perkins, but they gained courage under the questioning, and after the trial, when they heard that they were to get $1 each for testifying, they trooped down the hall after Justice Barrett, demanding their money at once.

Charles Lebrant, member of the School Board, was the first to tell about the official strap. He said Miss Perkins had been seen using the strap on a boy, and he had bought it in a St. Louis saddlery store. He did not know about the other strap, he said.

Virgil said he got into trouble with his teacher by whispering on Friday, Jan. 25. On the following Monday he was sent to Miss Perkins' office, and was told to take his books and leave. Miss Perkins began whipping him anyway, until he ran out of the office and went home. There, he said, his father whipped him. The next day he was sent to the office again, and was whipped with the narrow, tough strap, which he called a razor strap. He refused to take off his coat that time, so he said, but the teacher pulled it off.

Two girls pupils and one boy told of hearing Virgil cry out that he was being choked, and of hearing a prolonged scuffling, and cries from the principal's office. The boy's mother, Mrs. Pearl Walls of 5661 Helen avenue, told of the severe bruises on his shoulder and back when he got home, and Dr. J. W. Barnwell gave the medical testimony. Another boy pupil was summoned to tell of a whipping he had had, but a lawyer's wrangle stopped his testimony.

Miss Perkins' testimony.

The boy would have got through with the punishment the first day, and would not have been hurt, she said, if he had obeyed her order to take off his coat and lie across a chair. Naturally, when he refused standing, she had to use the strap on other parts of his body than those where she had intended to apply the strap. The second day's chastisement, she said, was for three offenses—the original whispering, denying it, and refusing to apply the strap. The third day's punishment was for the same three offenses—the original whispering, denying it, and refusing to apply the strap.

ATTORNEY FOR

STATE USED OFFICE IN PRIVATE CASE

Assistant Prosecutor Renick Wrote to Defendant in Divorce Action on Official Stationery.

In a divorce suit in Judge Hogan's branch of the Court of Domestic Relations yesterday, it was disclosed that Assistant Prosecuting Attorney James E. Renick, while acting as private counsel for the plaintiff, for which he received a fee, used the Prosecuting Attorney's office in an effort to force his client's husband to contribute to her support.

The case was that of Mrs. Mayne Himmler, who on March 14, 1923, retained Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Renick to represent her in a divorce suit against Walter J. Himmler of 1901 Benton street, a confectioneer. Mrs. Himmler paid Renick $28.50 on account.

April 1, Renick still in the employ of Mrs. Himmler as her private counsel and acting in his official capacity as Assistant Prosecuting Attorney, wrote a letter to Himmler on stationery of the Prosecuting Attorney's office, warning Himmler that "unless you send your wife a reasonable amount for the support of herself and her child, this office will be compelled to issue a warrant against you for failure to support your family." The letter concluded with: "We hope it will not be necessary for us to take any drastic action in this matter," and was signed "James E. Renick, Assistant Prosecuting Attorney."

Law on Accepting Fees.

While the law permits the Prosecuting Attorney and his assistants to engage in the practice of civil law in addition to their official duties, Section 724 of the 1919 State statutes makes it bribery for such official "to directly or indirectly accept a fee for aiding, promoting, counseling or procuring any indictment, true bill or legal process of any kind whatever against any person upon any matter whatever."

Smithers "Needed the Money."

Smithers said he got $50 a week, and that he had been employed from time to time for overtime work as a telegraph operator on the Star and other newspapers. Walsh suggested that McLean's tender was "unusual employment," but Smithers said he did not so consider it. He was seeking overtime employment, Smithers said.

Statement by Renick.

"Mrs. Himmler engaged me in my office in the Title Guaranty Building to file a divorce suit for her," he said. "When I saw that the question of non-support was involved and that Himmler was to be dealt with by the Prosecuting Attorney's office, I did write him a letter of complaint on the Prosecuting Attorney's stationery, and then turned the matter of non-support over to Ben Philipson, another Assistant Prosecuting Attorney."

When Himmler called at the Prosecuting Attorney's office he was interviewed by Philipson. I washed my hands of the matter in so far as it pertained to any possible prosecution under the non-support law. I never spoke to Himmler at any time in the Prosecuting Attorney's office. Philipson retained a lawyer to issue a warrant against Himmler, but decided not to contribute $10 a week to the support of his family.

"I later severed my connection with the divorce case and turned it over to August L. Ossenfort, who maintains an office in the same building. I did that because Himmler was making a fuss about me representing his wife as private counsel and being Assistant Prosecuting Attorney at the same time."

BATHHOUSE PATRON SUES

BELCHER HOTEL FOR $25,000

M. R. Patis of Champaign, Ill., Alleges He Was Attacked There and Beaten by Three Men.

Suit for $25,000 damages for a beating alleged to have been given him by three other patrons of the bathhouse at the Belcher Hotel, Fourth street and Lucas avenue, was filed today against the hotel management by M. R. Patis, a hotel proprietor of Champaign, Ill. Patis formerly was in the jewelry business here and resided at 740 Eastgate avenue.

The petition sets forth that Patis was in a retiring room, on Feb. 18, after taking a Belcher bath, when three men attacked him, injured his spine, blackened his eyes and loosened five of his teeth, all without provocation. The hotel management is made defendant on the ground it failed to protect Patis.

Patis's attorney, A. M. Frumberg, said the three assailants of Patis were intoxicated.

reached some committee members. McKenna, on the stand, explained that McLean had asked that he let him know when Secretary Stimp departed for the South. "I asked the secretary if it was all right to tell Mr. McLean he was going to Florida," McKenna added, and he said it was, but I sent the telegram and that's all there was to it."

Stirling said he had received a message from McLean asking him to send a telegram to Wilkins. "E. P. Wilkins, a boyhood friend of mine, was employed by Mr. McLean," Stirling said. "Mr. McLean had asked me if I knew of some good man to take care of his young child, and I recommended Mr. Wilkins."

Telegram exchange resulted. Stirling continued, because Wilkins was at Mopkinsville, Ky., and McLean did not know his address. There were two other telegrams, the secret service man explained, which the committee had found.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes—Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician.

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During those years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, yellow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-goods feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results. Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep them fit, trim and young.

Mighty Healing Power of Peterson's Ointment

Heals 30-Year-Old Ulcer

"I wish I could publish all the grateful letters I get every week," says Peterson. "I don't believe anyone on this earth has such a happy time at work as I have. All I do is make Peterson's Ointment and read letters like these that come right from the heart."

"I had an ulcer on my ankle—had it 30 years and could not get it healed. For the last six years I had several doctors. I got one box of your ointment and it almost healed it and it was entirely healed before I had used the second one. I don't think there is a better remedy on earth." Mrs. J. C. Henderson, 529 Sprague Street, Witter-Salem, N. C.

Peterson's Ointment is just as good for piles as for old sores. It stops itching of eczema almost instantly. There isn't anything in the way of pimples or face blemishes that it won't chase away, and for sore feet, chafing, sunburn, scalds, cuts and bruises there is nothing so sure or speedy. 35 cents, 60c, $1.00.

EMPLOYERS JUSTIFY STAND ON WAGES

Cite Building Statistics in Other Cities to Show That St. Louis Has Been Penalized.

The Associated Building Interests of St. Louis, an organization of employers of 80 per cent of the building craftsmen here, justify their declared resistance to increased wage demands by the following statistics, compiled from reports of the National Association of Builders' Exchanges and the F. W. Dodge Corporation, which they say show that the St. Louis building public is being "penalized" in its operations by increased wage demands.

The statistics, made public today, show that wages for carpenters, common laborers, bricklayers, hod carriers, plasterers and helpers, painters, cement finishers, iron workers, plumbers, electricians and steam fitters here are from 12 to 44 per cent higher than in other large cities in the United States, including New York, Chicago, and Philadelphia.

City last in money spent. In refutation of the unions' demands for increased wages on the ground of extensive building operations here the statistics place St. Louis last in money spent per capita population for building in the last three years in 28 American cities. Los Angeles, with an expenditure of 234 per capita for the three-year period, heads the list. Other cities spending in excess of $50 per capita for the period are: Dallas, Tex., $115; Memphis, Tenn., $111; New York City, $109; St. Paul, Minn., $102; Oakland, Cal., $103; Detroit, Mich., $85; Washington, D. C., $93; and Atlanta, Ga., $88. The per capita expenditure here for building during the same period was $34.

These figures, in view of the fact that St. Louis was ranked sixth in population and wealth at the last census, prove conclusively, contractors say, that wage increases are unwarranted here. Additional data compiled by the contractors show that in total construction St. Louis ranked fourteenth among American cities. Further, in 1933, the per capita expenditure for building here was $30.53 as compared to the $34 for the three-year period just passed, a per capita increase of less than 14 per cent.

Comparison of Expenditures. In 1906 building permits totaling 20 millions of dollars were issued in St. Louis. Last year 41 millions of dollars worth were issued. It is generally conceded, contractors point out, that building costs have doubled since pre-war times. On this basis the increase in the totals of building permits and the expenditures per capita really amounts to a decrease.

In further answering wage demands contractors are preparing data showing labor's percentage in material cost. Contractors who have made a study of the subject say the biggest item in the increase of building materials is the increased wage of the persons engaged in the manufacture of the product. The Associated Building Interests of St. Louis has gone on record as against further wage increases and when the local building advances failed to accept an offer of advance of 10 cents an hour Monday noon, contractors were authorized to employ other laborers at the old scale.

Union Leaders Hopeful of Early Settlement of Wage Differences. Hope of an early settlement of wage differences existing at present between building laborers, hoisting engineers, concrete men and other workers was expressed today by union leaders.

J. H. Sorden, president of the Building Laborers' Union, said today that the demands of the 3178 men in his organization were in the hands of a wage committee having authority to negotiate with employers. The laborers demanded a 20-cent hourly increase, effective March 1, over the former scale of 67½ cents an hour. Employers offered a 10-cent hourly increase and, when this was rejected, the offer with withdrawn Monday noon. Work on most building projects here has been carried on with other labor at the old scale. Concrete men also rejected a 10-cent hourly increase, which would have brought their wage to 80 cents an hour. Hoisting engineers, who failed to accept a $1.50 hourly scale applying to two-drum engines, are said to have expressed a desire to reopen negotiations.

Employers have expressed themselves as against further wage increases as being detrimental to the building industry. The manner in which employers handle the present wage situation here is being watched with interest by employers' groups in other cities. The local body received a letter from Edward Haupt, president of the Chicago Employers' Association, urging St. Louis employers to resist increased wage demands. Haupt said concession to demands here would be detrimental to the 1934 building program in Chicago.

$50,000 Fire at Chick Hatchery. Special to the Post-Dispatch. CLINTON, Mo., March 12.—A $50,000 fire at 1 o'clock this morning destroyed part of the Booth hatchery, a plant with a capacity of more than 2,000,000 baby chicks a year. Twelve mammoth incubators and 100,000 eggs being hatched were lost. A residence property adjoining the hatchery also was burned. The loss is one-third covered by insurance.

DOCTORS DIDN'T HELP HER SICKLY CHILD

Is strong and healthy now. Mother says Milks Emulsion saved its life.

"Last May my 3-year-old baby was taken very ill, got so bad that we expected her to die at any time. Had four doctors but they did not know what ailed her and finally stopped coming. She had been sick about 5 months when I started giving her Milks Emulsion. I noticed results from the first and by the time she had taken 2 bottles she was absolutely strong and healthy. I am thankful to say Milks Emulsion saved her life."—Mrs. Willis S. Pitts, Nacogdoches, Texas.

For restoring appetite, health and strength in sickly children, mothers will find Milks Emulsion the thing they have always sought. Most children like to take it, because unlike many emulsions and tonics, it really tastes good. Milks Emulsion restores healthy, natural bowel action; it is a truly corrective medicine, doing away with all need of pills and physic. It promotes appetite and quickly puts the digestive organs in shape to assimilate food, and thus build flesh and strength. Milks Emulsion is strongly recommended to those whose sickness has weakened; it is a powerful aid in resisting and repairing the effects of wasting diseases. Chronic stomach trouble and constipation are promptly relieved. This is the only solid emulsion made, and so palatable that it is eaten with a spoon like ice cream. No matter how severe your case, you are urged to try Milks Emulsion under this guarantee—Take six bottles home with you, use it according to directions and if in the meantime the results, your money will be promptly refunded. Price 60c and $1.20 per bottle. The Milks Emulsion Co., Terre Haute, Ind. Sold by druggists everywhere.

Guard Against "Flu" With Musterole

Influenza, Grippe and Pneumonia usually start with a cold. The moment you get those warning aches, get busy with Musterole. Musterole is a counter-irritant that relieves congestion (which is what a cold really is) and stimulates circulation.

It has all the good qualities of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister. Just rub it on with your finger. Right where you will feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief. Have Musterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness.

To Mothers: Musterole is now made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole. 35c and 60c, in jars and tubes.

Sugar Coated Cod Liver Oil Tablets For Thin Kids

Forget the horrible tasting Cod Liver Oil and give the thin, puny, undeveloped children McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets if you want to give them a good appetite and put pounds of good, healthy flesh on their bones. Doctors know all about them and so does Wolff-Wilson, Judge & Dolph Drug Stores, Enderle Drug Co. and all good pharmacists, for they are in great demand, because they are not laggards but show results in a few days.

They are not expensive, either—60 tablets 60 cents, and children take them like candy.

DE LUXE BODY CO. TRUSTEE FILES SUIT

Former Vice-President and Partner Asked to Make Accounting of Property.

A suit filed in United States District Court yesterday by W. Scott Hancock, trustee in bankruptcy for the Coupe de Luxe Body Co., demands that George R. Smith Jr., former vice president of the concern, and George B. Fleischman give an accounting for the full value of merchandise turned over to them by Smith's brother, J. F. G. "Gab" Smith, who succeeded George Smith as vice president a short time before the failure. The petition alleges that "Gab" Smith turned over unfinished bodies and accessories, valued at $12,000, to his brother and Fleischman, partners in the Gray Motor Sales Co., 2147 Locust boulevard, for the purpose of defrauding creditors. Eighty "koo-pay" bodies in various stages of completion and an unlimited number of accessories figured in the transfer, the petition states, and although the consideration was to have been $2000, the company only received $485 from George Smith and Fleischman. It is further alleged that "Gab" Smith caused work amounting to $2152 to be done on the bodies by company employees after the transfer, and that claims resulting from this labor were listed as "preferred" and had to be met from the company's assets. The transfer was made without the knowledge of other officers, the petition alleges, and unless George Smith and Fleischman are compelled to make a reasonable accounting the creditors will suffer "irreparable injury."

The Coupe de Luxe Body Co. was organized with George Smith as vice president and salesman for the purpose of building de luxe bodies for Fords. George Smith testified at a hearing in the bankruptcy proceedings that one reason for the company's failure was that many of the bodies were delivered to purchasers "like coats without sleeves." He said that the officers' sleeves. He said that chasers' drafts resulted quite often in bodies being sent out minus windshields, door handles, and electrical equipment. The company was adjudged bankrupt on a voluntary petition Nov. 22, last. The suit filed by the trustee yesterday states that allowed claims of $150,000 are still existing against the concern and that following the payment of preferred claims, present assets amount to $1200.

SUIT FOR $3000 BURGLARY INSURANCE ON WHISKY HEARD

Payment Resisted on Ground Plaintiff Obtained Liquor in Violation of Dry Law.

The suit of Herman Kistnermacher, 2900 Rutger street, to recover $3000 on a burglary insurance policy based on the loss of two barrels of whisky was taken under advisement yesterday by Circuit Judge Taylor. The insurance company, the Travelers' Indemnity, resisted payment on the ground that plaintiff did not have an insurable interest in the property as he obtained it in violation of the Volstead law. Kistnermacher said his brother-in-law, Theodore Lutz, owed him $4000 and turned over the whisky in satisfaction of the debt. It was testified the liquor was delivered to plaintiff's home Jan. 16, 1935, the date constitutional prohibition went into effect. Although in a proof of loss furnished the insurance company by the claimant he stated he obtained possession March 5, 1935. The insurance was obtained March 8 of that year.

The insurance company contends that even if the date was Jan. 16, there was a violation of war-time prohibition as plaintiff did not have a Government permit to buy, nor did his brother-in-law have a permit to sell. It was contended by plaintiff that there was a suspension of war-time regulations on the sale of liquor in order to give dealers a chance to get rid of their stock as well as customers an opportunity to stock up before advent of constitutional prohibition. Judge Taylor instructed the attorneys to file briefs on the subject.

VANDERLIP SPEECH CANCELED

He Gives No Reason for Failure to Talk on "Courage."

NEW YORK, March 12.—For some unexplained reason Frank A. Vanderlip failed to deliver a scheduled address last night. Several weeks ago the Life Underwriters' Association of New York announced that he would speak on "Courage" at a dinner last night. When he failed to appear a reporter asked him why. "I am not going to speak anywhere this evening," was all he would say. It developed that a few days ago the association sent members the announcement that Vanderlip would not speak.

Woman's Death Attributed to Drug By the Associated Press.
HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 12.—A coroner's jury which investigated the death of Mrs. Tom Marvin, wife of Jack Dempsey's former sparring partner, whose body was found in her room in a boarding house yesterday, reported that the woman died of dilation of the heart caused by use of a drug. The jury heard testimony that Mrs. Marvin was fined $5 in police court Tuesday, following a quarrel with her husband.

flabby arms?

One of the greatest advantages Melto has over other methods of weight reduction is that its action can be isolated to one particular spot—the upper arms, for instance. And the results produced are often so remarkable as to appear almost magical. Yet the action of Melto is based on a perfectly natural principle.

So-called "fat" consists largely of water. Certain harmless chemicals contained in Melto cause this water to evaporate and the fatty tissues to break down. The waste matter is then carried away by the blood stream.

Fat disappears. Briefly, the process is one of localized evaporation. Hundreds of women in all parts of the country have safely, quickly and easily molded their figures to just the proportions desired through this pleasant Melto way. You can do the same. Get a half-pound jar of Melto at your drug or department store today. The price is three dollars—and unless the results are completely satisfactory your money will be cheerfully refunded. Mississippi Loses Rail Merger Suit.
The Associated Press.
MEMPHIS, Miss., March 12.—The suit of the State of Mississippi, instituted in 1922 as a result of the merger of the Southern Railway and allied interests in Mississippi, involving possible fines aggregating $40,000,000, was dismissed yesterday by Chancellor

George C. Tamm. The suit was directed against the Southern Railway, the Southern Railway in Mississippi, the Mobile & Ohio, Alabama-Great Southern, New Orleans & Northeastern, and the Alabama & Vicksburg Railroads. The suit charged violation of the State antitrust law. On first trial the State was victorious, but an appeal to the State Supreme Court resulted in a reversal and order for retrial.

UNDERWOOD WINS IN ALABAMA PRIMARY

"March That Will End in White House Has Begun," Says His Campaign Leader.

By the Associated Press.
BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 12.—Senator Oscar W. Underwood has the privilege of naming Alabama's delegation to the New York convention on the basis of yesterday's primary in Alabama, in which he defeated L. B. Musgrove by a majority estimated at more than 20,000. Incomplete returns from 69 out of 67 counties gave Underwood 49,299, Musgrove 27,285 and M. A. Dinsmore 5,981.

Musgrove refused to concede defeat and declared alleged frauds would be "exposed immediately." He also charged that the vote in the black belt and a few other counties, especially in Mobile, had been "manipulated in the interest of my opponent." William Jennings Bryan made a campaign tour through the State in support of Musgrove.

Judge R. B. Evans, vice chairman of the Underwood campaign committee and chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee, issued the following statement:

"In the campaign just closed the most determined effort has been made by the enemies of Mr. Underwood and of the Democratic party to discredit him in his home State. Powerful organizations have conducted a bitter fight against him. The most unjustifiable and senseless misrepresentations have been made and his inveterate enemy, William J. Bryan, stumped the State against him.

"Notwithstanding these opposing forces, the people of Alabama have recorded their approval of Senator Underwood in the most emphatic terms. The endorsement of the Legislature and of the Executive Committee have been ratified at the polls by the people themselves. The march that will end in the White House has begun."

Underwood Says His Chances Are Excellent.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Gratification over his primary victory in his home State was expressed today by Senator Underwood of Alabama.

"I want to take advantage of this opportunity," he said, "to thank my friends and constituents in Alabama for the wonderful victory they have accomplished for me in my home State. I am sure it is due to their loyal support and their kind efforts in my behalf. I shall always be grateful to them for this accomplishment."

"Alabama acts first among the Southern States. It foreshadows what is to follow. I feel confident that a large majority of the delegates from the Southern States will go to New York supporting my cause and that the South will be received cordially and sympathetically by the Democracy of the North. I believe that my chances for securing the nomination are excellent."

Three More States Pledge Delegates to Coolidge.

By the Associated Press.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., March 12.—Colorado's delegation to the Republican national convention was instructed by the Republican State convention yesterday to vote for President Coolidge for the nomination for the presidency.

Hubert Work of Pueblo, Secretary of the Interior, and United States Senator Phillips were elected delegates at large.

George Shaw, State chairman, read a letter from Secretary Work, in which the accomplishments of the Republican administration were praised. The letter said the vision of the late President Harding was being "supplemented and safeguarded by the courageous, clear-minded, constructive and uncompromising Calvin Coolidge."

By the Associated Press.

TOPEKA, Kan., March 12.—The Republican State convention elected seven delegates at large to the national convention yesterday and instructed them for Coolidge.

Congressman J. N. Tinscher assailed the Democratic party and denounced what he termed was an attempt to discredit Senator Curtis of Kansas by bringing his name into the Teapot Dome scandal.

By the Associated Press.

MANCHESTER, N. H., March 12.—Returns from yesterday's presidential primary in New Hampshire show election of 11 delegates to the Republican national convention pledged to President Coolidge. United States Senator Moses, the only one of the eight candidates for delegate at large who refused to pledge himself for Coolidge, ran last on the ticket. All Democratic contestants were unpledged.

NEW TROUBLE WITH COLORUMS

By the Associated Press.

MANILA, March 12.—Threats have developed of fresh trouble from the Colorums, a religious society, some of whose members recently clashed with the Constabulary with resultant fatalities on both sides. A report from Agusan Province states that about 300 members of the society are threatening to attack a detachment of Constabulary near the town of Waleo.

ANSWERS SUIT OVER
CABANNE FILM NOTES

Mrs. Florence Campbell Van Heel Testifies She Didn't Get "Value Received."

Mrs. Florence A. Campbell Van Heel does not consider that she got "value received" when she signed notes for a $50,000 investment in the participation certificates of the William Christy Cabanne Motion Picture Trust, Ltd. She said so today, in the answer filed by her lawyer to the National City Bank's suit to collect on her 10 notes, which she signed jointly with her husband, Klas Van Heel.

The bank's suit, filed Jan. 10, is against Mr. and Mrs. Van Heel, but it was only the wife's answer which was filed today. She was the widow of James Campbell, public utility magnate, and inherited half the income of his $20,000,000 estate. Her marriage to Van Heel, a young Hollander whom she met in California, occurred in that State nearly two years ago.

The notes signed by Mr. and Mrs. Van Heel were turned over to the bank for collection.

Charge Misrepresentation. Mrs. Van Heel, in her reply, says she was induced to give the notes by "false and fraudulent misrepresentation, with intent to deceive and defraud." She says it was represented to her that $150,000 had been subscribed already, and that her subscription would suffice, with what had been subscribed by others, to finance the picture which was planned.

It was further represented to her, she says, that the proceeds of the picture would be available to pay the notes, and that she would not be called upon to pay the amount of the notes.

Some legal allegations are also made, one of these being that the motion picture trust is void, as being in violation of the rule against perpetuities. The trustees are H. S. Priest, George W. Goode and William Christy Cabanne.

Company in Difficulty. The Van Heels are in Europe. They were only two of a considerable number of St. Louisans who subscribed to the promotion of Cabanne's proposed corporation. Refusal of some of the subscribers, including the Van Heels, to meet their pledges, was declared, in the pending suit, to have caused the company's financial difficulties. Its first picture, "The Eternal Flame," is still in a New York studio.

One of the St. Louis pledges was that of Mayor Kiel, for $500. He was sued for the amount, but a justice court jury decided that he need not pay. He produced a witness to an oral agreement, to the effect that his signature was only for promotion purposes, and that he would not be called on for the money.

FATALLY BURNED WHEN IN BED IN ROOM AT HOTEL

Henry L. Edmunds, Newspaperman, Ended Own Life, Coroner Decides After an Inquest.

Henry L. Edmunds, 37 years old, a newspaperman, died at City Hospital today from burns suffered at 2:10 a. m. when the bed in his room at the New Grand Central Hotel, 323 Market street, caught fire, presumably from a cigarette.

He died without regaining consciousness. In the room were two empty bottles which had contained paraldehyde, a sedative, and three letters, addressed, respectively, to his wife, a brother and the public, the last being in the nature of a will. Police were told that Edmunds had suffered a nervous breakdown and had been taking the drug to induce sleep. A coroner's verdict of suicide was returned.

Edmunds had been connected with the Globe-Democrat for several years, part of the time as assistant city editor. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Hulda Edmunds, 2834 A Connecticut street, a daughter, Mary Jane, 2, and a brother and sister.

YOUTH FREED ON FAILURE OF WITNESS TO IDENTIFY HIM

Leslie Houston Testified His Admission to Police Came After He Was Struck.

Edward O'Neill, a department store delivery driver, who told the police and the grand jury last December that Leslie Houston was one of two men who held him up at a North St. Louis corner, taking $57, was not so positive yesterday, when he testified in the trial of Houston in Circuit Judge Ittner's Court. His uncertainty left the State without positive testimony, and a jury acquitted Houston last night, after having considered the case five hours.

Police witnesses said Houston admitted the robbery to them. Houston, who is 18 years old and lives at 4945 Easton avenue, said he made such admissions only after the policemen had struck him several times, and when a policeman was standing behind him, holding a billy. He was arrested on suspicion, several days after the robbery. The police denied his story of abuse.

Water More Expensive Than Wine.

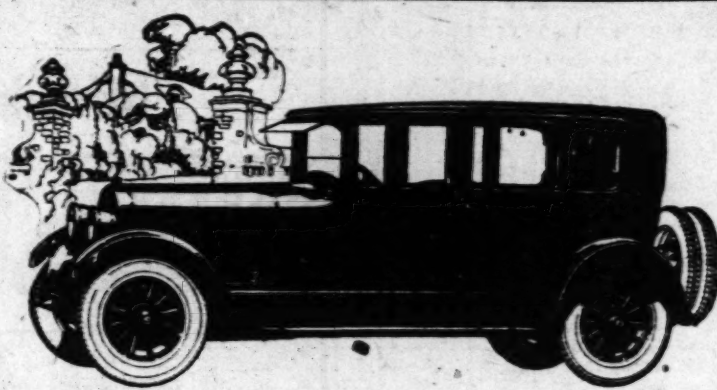

Correspondence of the Associated Press. BUDAPEST, Feb. 19.—Water has become more expensive than wine in Budapest because of the special water taxes imposed to increase the city's income. The Hungarian Government feared the tax so burdensome it was forced to disband the Budapest city financial administration.

Hungary Bans "American Bars."

By the Associated Press. BUDAPEST, March 12.—In consequence of a Government decree promulgated recently "American bars" have disappeared from Budapest. However, the stuff sold in the places flows as freely as before. The decree directed all places of amusement, cafes and other public resorts bearing French, English or German names to put out the signs in the Magyar language. The American bar has become an "ivocarnol."

NEW RUPTURE OVER
TUTANKHAMEN'S TOMB

Cartier's Counsel Calls Egyptian Government "Bandit" and Negotiations Collapse.

(Copyright, 1934)
Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and Chicago Daily News.

CAIRO, March 12.—After 12 days of incessant effort to settle the controversy over King Tutankhamen's tomb, and as the very moment when new concessions awaited the signature of Lady Carnarvon, the negotiations collapsed owing to an affront offered to the Egyptian Government when Howard Carter's counsel, F. M. Maxwell, referred to the Egyptian Government as "bandit."

Not a single difference exists between the Carter Carnarvon terms and the Egyptian Government. All grounds for misunderstanding having been removed by the following letter drafted by Howard Carter, acting for the trustees of the Carnarvon estate: "Cairo, Egypt, March 11, 1924. To His Excellency, M. T. Hanna, Minister of Public Works, Cairo:

"In order to put an end to an acrimonious and regrettable dispute, and in order to restore the peaceful relations indispensable to the future of scientific work in Egypt, and in particular to enable Howard Carter to complete the invaluable work he has begun, I hereby voluntarily relinquish all claims on the parts of the trustees and executors of the estate of the late Lord Carnarvon of the antiquities in the tomb of Tutankhamen, and agree to withdraw all legal actions so far as they relate to the enforcement of such claims.

"At the same time I would invite the attention of the Egyptian Government to the enormous value of the discovery in Egypt, of the existence of the costly work of salvage in the tomb, already incurred and still to continue, all of which accretes to the benefit of the Egyptian Museum and the Egyptian Government and people without cost to them. The Egyptian Government has repeatedly recognized that in the work of salvaging the incomparable monuments of which it was the discoverer, Mr. Carter has shown untiring devotion and an efficiency beyond all praise, while his staff likewise have rendered invaluable service in the same task.

"Under these circumstances I venture to mention the large number of duplicate objects in the tomb and to call attention to the appropriateness of a recognition of the above services to the Egyptian Government by the presentation of some of these duplicates to the British Museum and to the Metropolitan Museum in the name of the 'Countess Carnarvon.'"

Cable to the Post-Dispatch and Chicago Daily News.

Cairo, March 12.—After 32 days of incessant effort to settle the controversy over King Tutankhamen's tomb, and at the very moment when new concessions seemed within the grasp of the Egyptian Government, the negotiations collapsed today.

The Egyptian Government, after a long and arduous struggle, had agreed to an arrangement which would have allowed the American Expeditionary Expedition to the tomb of Tutankhamen to be placed under the supervision of the Egyptian Government, and to the Egyptian Government to be placed under the supervision of the American Expeditionary Expedition.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Declaring its trains may be excluded from the Kansas City passenger terminal after March 31, the Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad today asked the Interstate Commerce Commission to intervene in its controversy with the Kansas City Terminal Railway Co.

The road is successor to the old M. K. and T. on which a Federal receivership was recently terminated. The old contract, the road claims, involved excessive charges which the terminal company is endeavoring to collect. The commission is asked to fix a fair charge.

In pronouncing sentence, Mr. Rutledge announced that hereafter he would cut the sentence to fit the intelligence of the offender and draw a definite line between such persons and those of "low intelligence and ignorance who could not be expected to know any better."

RADIO MONOPOLY SOUGHT IN SUITS TO TEST PATENTS

Litigation Begun by the American Telegraph and Telephone Co. Seeks Virtual Control of Air.

4 CONCERNS NOW IN LICENSING COMBINE

New York Company, if Successful in Court, Can Dissolve Agreement by Which It Shares Rights.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, March 12.—The fight between radio companies for control of the air is just beginning.

Even at this early time the promoters and observers of this infant industry—whose potentialities are admitted as great as those once offered by the multi-billionaire automobile and motion picture industries—are agreed that before the struggle is over many years will have passed and bitter controversies will have been heard. Vast fortunes are at stake.

After an exhaustive study of developments in radio broadcasting, new inventions and recent litigation,
the Post-Dispatch is enabled to present facts that point out with clearness of the struggle for the supremacy of the air will not be waged between the American Telegraph and Telephone Co. and the so-called independent broadcasters between whom a legal battle has been begun.

The facts show that the great fight still to be waged will probably be between the American Telegraph and Telephone Co. and the three big companies with which it is now admittedly in agreement for economical and efficient transaction of a rapidly increasing radio business—the Radio Corporation of America, the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing and the General Electric Co. The fight has been begun by the A. T. & T., which has announced that it is seeking stabilization of the radio industry; in other words, that it is trying to find out who shall predominate.

Public Has Much at Stake.

The public, because of its fundamental interest, has much at stake. If the A. T. & T. is successful in the legal contests it has begun it will have virtual control over the air and will be sole judge of what shall be broadcast, whether it be music, or a sermon, or a political address, or the Unesco Biscuit band at $10 a minute.

Naturally, under these circumstances the attitude of the Government and locally, the City of New York—is awaited with eagerness.

The four big companies mentioned entered into agreements in 1919, 1920 and 1921, for the purpose of enabling each other to do business without legal interference from each other for alleged infringement of patents. These were cross-licensing agreements, which had the effect of dividing up the radio business, and at the same time shutting off all possible competition. The agreements are on file in the Federal Court here.

Cross-Licensing Agreements.

By the cross-licensing agreements the following rights and privileges are allocated:

The A. T. & T. (and the Westinghouse Electric Co., whose common stock is owned by the A. T. & T.) got the right to sell broadcasting transmitting sets and the exclusive right to broadcast for toll and use radio inventions requiring wires such as the multiplex telephone and telegraph carrier systems for toll.
The Radio Corporation got the right to operate Trans-Atlantic and other long-distance radio telegraph communication stations, to operate ship-to-shore radio telegraph communications, and the exclusive right to sell amateur radio receiving apparatus, which was to be manufactured by the General Electric and by Westinghouse, 60 per cent by the former and 40 per cent by the latter. This included vacuum tubes for home radio receiving sets.

The General Electric got the right to supply 60 per cent of the needs of the Radio Corporation, winning a 60 per cent share, because, through majority stock ownership in the Radio Corporation, it controlled such important inventions as the Fleming valve and the Alex-anderson alternator which formed the basis for trans-Atlantic radio transmission.

The Westinghouse company got the right to manufacture 40 per cent of the Radio Corporation's needs.

Charge for Broadcasting.

It will be noted that these agreements gave the A. T. & T. what might easily be developed into a monopoly of the radio field, for this company got not only the exclusive right to charge for broadcasting—which it is doing at the rate of $10
a minute—but also the right to use radio inventions requiring wires for toll.

It already owned what it claims to be a monopoly of modulation circuits utilizing vacuum tubes, developed by Western Electric engineers, and all rights in the important vacuum-tube amplifying circuit patents purchased from De-Forest in 1907—purchased incide-ntly for a song, according to present values.

In other words, stripped of technical phraseology, this meant that the A. T. & T. had a natural monopoly in long-distance radio broadcasting because of its monopoly of telephone wires, and a second distinct advantage because it owned the vital vacuum tube

On Being Well Dressed

"A man's a man for a' that"—meaning, of course, that clothes do not make him a man. But such is the psychological effect of favorable impressions, that clothes—good, well-fitting clothes—will help to put over, in both the business and social world, the man who is a man, as nothing else will.

Upon this fact rests the importance of dressing up to success.
That does not imply or encourage extravagance. It calls for nothing more than the exercise of good judgment in the choice of clothing.

The ablest aid of good judgment in clothes selection is Advertising.

Manufacturers who make men's clothing and merchants who sell it have made it possible for everybody to know good styles and fabrics.

Their advertisements are style talks. They are also a guarantee of quality and satisfaction, and so consistently does advertising aid both the advertiser and the customer, that in creating more sales for the merchant and manufacturer—it lowers prices for those who buy.

It will pay every man in St.
Louis to read the clothing advertisements in the Post-Dispatch every day. They give him the latest news of everything that goes to make up the well-dressed man's wardrobe and they reflect the best in fashion and fabric which the market offers.

The knowledge obtained in reading these advertisements will enable the buyer to exercise judgment and economy in making his clothes purchases.
It will give greater buying power to the money he spends and it will result in that sense of being well dressed which in itself inspires confidence and creates success.

The merchants who are advertising are progressive, and because they are progressive they can be trusted to show the most representative styles and offer the best values.

RESERVE DEAL CALLED TREASON BY MRS. PINCHOT

Wife of Pennsylvania's Governor Says Men Who Turned Over Lands Are Traitors.

ADmits THAT IT'S A REPUBLICAN SCANDAL

Remarks Taken by Some as Indirect Statement from Husband, Mentioned for Presidency.

The Republican wife of the Republican Governor of Pennsylvania, speaking before the Institute of Government and Politics, at the City Club last night, declared the men at Washington who turned over the naval oil reserves for private exploitation were guilty of treason.

The speaker, Mrs. Gifford Pinchot, followed up her charge by admitting:

"When all is said and done, it is a Republican scandal, inasmuch as the naval oil reserves were lost through the action of a Republican Secretary of the Interior working in combination with a Republican Secretary of the Navy during a Republican administration."

Stresses Conservation.

By some, Mrs. Pinchot's address, which touched on national and international matters, was taken as an indirect statement from Governor Pinchot, who has been mentioned in some quarters for the presidency. Earlier in the day she had laughingly shied away when asked about his possible candidacy. In her talk, however, she called for a return to the "conservation" principles of President Roosevelt, who, she said, first fought private exploitation of oil and other lands.

Gifford Pinchot was chief of the Federal Forestry Bureau under Roosevelt's administration. Mrs. Pinchot arrived in St. Louis yesterday afternoon and departed last night on the return trip. As a potential "first lady of the land," she showed a very democratic spirit. The newspaper photographers were all set to take her picture at the Market street entrance to Union Station when it was discovered she was blocking the path of a pushcart loaded with celery, destined for dining cars. Mrs. Pinchot graciously stepped aside and the pushcart continued on its journey. Her pushers were unaware of her identity.

Consents to Interview.

When the pictures were over, she consented to be interviewed. The interview was held across the street from the doorway of a pawnbroker's shop, while the pawnbroker's clerk temporarily laid aside business to watch the attractive, smiling, red-haired, fair-skinned person who was being interviewed. After this Mrs. Pinchot was taken to the home of her local hostess, Mrs. Klenberger Davis, where a tea was given, the guests being personal friends.

In her address last night, Mrs. Pinchot said Washington today is witnessing a contest for power between two ideas—the conservation idea, which is that the natural resources of the country belong to the people, to be used by them for their benefit, and, on the other hand, "the idea that to him, the land belongs who has it." She said she was a little when I look back on the share her husband had in working out these policies under the Roosevelt administration.

Defines Conservation.

Conservation was defined by the speaker as "a repudiation of the old doctrine that the forests, coal and oil lands—and water power sites—are best used for private profit, and, instead, that the use of the earth and all its contents belong rightly to all of the people, and that their interests must be considered in advance of the interests of any smaller group." "What we have witnessed," she said, "is a gigantic attempt to overturn the conservation policies. The men who sacrificed the navy's oil for private profit ahead of the safety of the nation. In wartime their act would have been treason; to peacetime it is no less treason to the best interests of the country."

"A few unscrupulous men have struck a deadly blow at the future of our country, that it is allowed to stand, can never be repaired. If the navy's oil fields are not recovered, the lives of thousands of our young men will be the price that America would have to pay in the future if our navy has to compete in the public markets of the world for life.Mrs. Pinchot said the important question before the country now is not whether Fall, whom she described as a "well-known enemy of conservation," goes to prison or not, but the return to public ownership of the Naval oil fields and, henceforth, rigid adherence to conservatism. Referring to "what lengths a certain type of leadership has brought us today," she said, "without integrity or moral courage," she confessed that Teapot Dome and kindred deals constitute what is essentially a Republican scandal, and added:"We have got to see that our party is purged of the intolerable stain just as you Democrats on the other side must see that the men to whom the trust has been confided shall be eliminated from public life."The Republican wife of the Re-

Glatfley, one of the leaders in the campaign of liquor raids that twice resulted in the sending of soldiers to the county, declared his purpose to continue the cam-

Describes Conditions.

Glatfley, introduced by Mrs.
Mary Dolley of Lebanon, County
President of the W. C. T. U., began his story with his assignment to the Herrin church two years ago.
"Ever since that time," he said, "I have been a witness to the conditions of this county. It is a place where law and order are being run down," he said, "and restaurants are selling liquor and there are gambling houses and houses of prostitution. There is a strong foreign element with no respect for law or American institutions. Herrin is now a lawless place. Ninety tion. A wide open town was opposed by a Methodist for Mayor.

The wide open man won. After that we had everything in the way of vice and crime that you have in St. Louis and East St. Louis. Egan's rats came down. Boozers operated back and forth. A hotel was operated as a house of prostitution under the noses of the Mayor and police. Women were being sold on the streets in daylight. The county roads were made dangerous by drunken drivers. Holdups were frequent.

How Galligan Was Elected.

Then a county election came along and the miners were told that if they didn't elect Galligan Sheriff they would be hung for the Herrin massacre. They elected him. Conditions became worse. The only criminals molested were those who wouldn't give up. The State's Attorney backed the Sheriff. The circuit Judge was one of them. The decent people were afraid to open their heads.Then I got our people together and told them what was going on.

STRANGE STORY OF REINCARNATION

Italian Artist Believes Grandmother Came Back as Homeless Girl.

By BEATRICE BASKERVILLE,
Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

ROME, Feb. 15.—In Turin, that Italian city which was once the capital of the House of Savoy—before it became the capital of Italy—lives a painter of some repute, who is still in the thirtieth year of his life, with an ascetic face and without those bohemian attributes of flowing beard, long hair and doubtful kept hands which some painters are supposed to glory in.

To Aldo Persico has happened a strange thing; it was told to me by himself in calm, slow sentences and a steady gaze of his gray eyes, the sort of eyes landscape painters often have.

I had been to see some of his pictures. He lives simply; a large studio is the chief part of his house, which overlooks the Alps with their shining white summits; the rest of the home is enough for him and his one servant, a brother and a sister.

Spiritually About Woman.
The door was opened by a young woman; her age it was hard to tell, but her face struck me as extraordinary. There was a look of spirituality about her which I have never seen on the face of any living creature. Her dress was very simple but neat. In a soft voice she invited me into the studio.

Later this woman came in with coffee and her face impressed me so deeply that I could not help asking her who she was. Her name, she said, was immediately changed; his frank answers had not prepared me for such easiness.

"I don't know," he said, fidgeting with some sketches; "we call her Ida."

The atmosphere had suddenly become uncomfortable. I left soon afterward. A month passed. I had returned to Rome and forgotten about the Persico family. One evening in one of those odd little restaurants which linger in the Eternal City, I came across the Italian painter. He explained that he had come up in connection with the exhibition of some pictures. He asked to join me at my table and we sat for a long time. When coffee appeared he looked hard at me with his clear painter's eyes and said:

"You were taken back when you came to see my pictures in Turin. About Ida, I think I ought to tell you the story; perhaps you can explain it."

Tells Story of "Ida."
He lit a cigarette and began in low tones:

"We three, brother, sister and myself, were much with our grandmother as children. She lived on her little estate in the hills in the Province of Alessandria and grew the best wine in the neighborhood. I was her favorite; many a glorious summer have I spent with the old lady. Before I was 15 she died and the little estate was sold to a poor family. My grandfather was a painter. I began my manhood as a painter. At 20 I was often puzzled how to get two square meals a day, and my appetite was healthy. My brother was hard up, too. He had to teach in his spare time in order to finish his engineering course; my sister, poor thing, was a 'companion-housekeeper' to a rich but disagreeable old woman who lived in Turin and had miserly ways."

"I then lived in a studio at the top of an old house near the palace. It was little better than an attic. One bitter night in January—15 years ago now—I had a strange dream. I saw my grandmother as she used to look in the past. Her kindly, wrinkled face had an appealing look. I asked her, in my dream, what was the matter."

Message From Grandmother.
"Aldo," she said, with tears in her voice, "I am very unhappy. I suffer all the terrible things that a good woman whose poverty is extreme can suffer. I am on earth again. Tomorrow a young woman will knock at your door and ask to be taken in. Don't put her off with a small coin. Take her in and feed and clothe her."

"I remember telling my grandmother that, though I was not starving yet, I was not far from it and could not give a home to anybody else; but her face became more appealing than before and she said with infinite sadness: 'Don't you see, Aldo, it is your grandmother who lives again in that poor beggar's earthly frame. If you reject her you reject me and prolong my torments.'"

"I woke up then and the dream pressed me all that morning. I knew I had forgotten it when, one morning, there was a knock at my door. Expecting one of my chums, I opened it. Ida stood outside. Her face I saw, but a ragged old man with a face worn by hunger and suffering and blue with cold. She stretched out a thin hand in mute appeal. I remembered my dream."

"'Ornament!' I cried in fear and amazement. 'Take me in!' the beggar murmured. 'Will bring you happiness.' 'But I was dream. Too.' 'This was a dream, too. I had the way into my studio. I was bare of food and fuel. I ran down to one of my chums who lived in the same street, borrowed a few francs and bought some meat, milk and coffee. I owed money to the wood merchant and only the thought of that shivering figure upstairs gave me courage to try and get a little more credit. "To my surprise the merchant gave me some wood and a little charcoal; for he was a surly man. I hurried off, lighted the fire and warmed the milk and made coffee. I thought I was going to die during that terribly stormy day. But toward evening she rallied and I left her, to go and sleep with a fellow-artist who laughed at my story and cracked jokes about this wonderful visitor I had."

"To cut a long story short, Ida brought happiness into my attic and, what is more, into our little family of orphans. On the strength of an order to illustrate a book I took a better lodging, where Ida had a cupboard of a place to herself and I was able to sleep in the studio."

Happy Ever Since.
"I worked hard from that day I have never lacked luck or happiness. My brother passed his exams and, getting a small job in Turin, came to live with me. My sister joined us and was able to get some lessons instead of putting up with slavery in the rich old miser's house. In less than a year we all lived together simply, decently and happily as we have been living ever since."

"Do you believe she is your grandmother come back to life?" I asked.

"I don't know. We were unable to trace Ida's past. She remembers nothing except being very ill in a hospital and then getting well and discharged and homeless and friendless, wandering about Turin."

"I am off home tomorrow morning," he said; "think it over; tell your friends, but don't mention my name."

'BARBER OF SEVILLE' SPARKLES WITH GAIETY

St. Louis Opera Co.'s Opening Performance Is Excellently Sung and Acted.

By RICHARD L. STOKES.
THOSE who went with misgivings to the opening performance of the St. Louis Grand Opera Co.'s brief season, last night at the Edison, experienced a pleasant surprise. They remained to admire not only the courageous ideals which inspired the organization to undertake Rossini's "Il Barbiere di Siviglia," but also a production much superior to the usual amateur enterprise.

As announced, the aim of the organization is to afford St. Louisans an opportunity for experiencing in grand opera. With the exception of Regio Baldrich, a professional, and M. A. Rossini, a veteran of the operatic stage, all of the principals were beginners. Under the circumstances, singing and acting were startlingly good, and bore witness in hundreds of details to the expert and routine direction of Signor Rossini, who is a descendant of the composer.

Mrs. Baker's Debut.
There was, for instance, Mrs. Esther Baker of this city, who made her debut in the part of Rosina. Though this was her first appearance before the public, she was completely self-possessed. Her coloratura voice, limpid, flexible and melodious, her facial expression, and her acting, all combined to enliven the role with a spirit of sparkling mischief. Her singing of the tour de force aria, "Una voce poco fa," was favorably received by the audience; and even better was her rendition of the "Swallow Song" by Dell'Aquila, which she interpolated in the music lesson scene. If she wishes, Mrs. Baker did a great deal with her professional career.

Baldrich, who comes from the Argentine, sang with beauty and authority the role of Count Almaviva, and won many accolades. Rossini, though handicapped by a severe affection of the throat, presented otherwise a highly elaborated and amusing portrait of the town fatcat and busybody, Figaro. U. Casano and J. Buccola, both St. Louisans, made excellent fun of the comedy roles of Bartolo and Basilio; and Anna Colina, as Bertha, did a great deal with her solo. Minor characters were taken by B. P. Shibert, A. San Juan and J. Sacks.

Gay and Sprightly Music.
Under the experienced baton of Frederick Fischer, Rossini's effervescent music welled and bubbled gaily from the orchestra of 27. Since this opera uses only a male chorus, which appears infrequently, opinions as to the organization's chorus of St. Louisans must wait for later performances.

"La Traviata" will be given tonight, with Mrs. Helen Stephens Phillips of this city as Violetta, Baldrich as Alfredo Germont, and Buccola as Giorgio Germont. Mrs. Baker will appear in the title role of "Lucia di Lammermoor" on Friday evening and "La Traviata" will be repeated Sunday night. Last night's audience was not large.

Masquerade Entertainment at Armory Saturday.
A masquerade dance and entertainment is to be held at the Armory Saturday night, under the auspices of the city's Violetta, Baldrich as Alfredo Germont, and Buccola as Giorgio Germont. Mrs. Baker will appear in the title role of "Lucia di Lammermoor" on Friday evening and "La Traviata" will be repeated Sunday night. Last night's audience was not large.

RECORD RUN BY TRAIN

Widow of Railway President Crosses Continent in 59 Hours.

By the Associated Press.
ALBANY, N. Y., March 12.—New York Central officials today said they regarded as a new transcontinental record the run made by the special train bringing Mrs. A. H. Smith, widow of the railroad president, from Pasadena, Cal., to Chappaqua, N. Y., for the funeral. The time announced for the run was 48 hours and 15 minutes, or 18 hours and 15 minutes less time than would be required if Mrs. Smith had taken the California Limited to Chicago and made direct connections with the Twentieth Century Limited.

All trains on the New York Central were stopped for one minute this afternoon during the funeral of Smith in Opera Singer Found Dead.

NEW YORK, March 12.—The body of Mme. Eugenie Bonner, once known as a prima donna, was found in a two-room East Side tenement yesterday. Physicians said she had died of a heart ailment. Neighbors asserted that she had lived for years in poor circumstances, alone with her pet cats, six of which were on her bed when the body was discovered. Mme. Bonner came to the United States 25 years ago at the invitation of the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Drexel of Philadelphia, who was married to Angier Buchanan Duke, son of the "tobacco king," in April, 1917, when she was 17 years old, and divorced in 1921. Robertson, a graduate of Yale, was in the army during the World War.

NEW YORK, March 12.—Dispatches from Palm Beach today say that the engagement of Mrs. Cordelia Biddle Duke of Philadelphia, divorced wife of the late Angier B. Duke, to Thomas Markoe Robertson of New York, is admitted by intimate friends. Mrs. Duke, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Drexel of Philadelphia, was married to Angier Buchanan Duke, son of the "tobacco king," in April, 1917, when she was 17 years old, and divorced in 1921. Robertson, a graduate of Yale, was in the army during the World War.

WANTS--REAL ESTATE

PART THREE.

NAMED CHIEF CATHOLIC HOSPITALS PHYSICIAN

Dr. Ralph A. Kinsella to Assume New Duties on Aug. 1.

Dr. Ralph A. Kinsella has been appointed director of the Department of Internal Medicine of St. Louis University Medical College, and physician-in-chief at the university hospitals, composed of the St. Mary's group, Dr. Kinsella, at present acting head of the Department of Medicine of Washington University and physician-in-chief at Barnes Hospital, will assume his new duties on Aug. 1.

Dr. Kinsella is a native St. Louisian and a graduate of St. Louis University in the academic and medical departments. He has been on the resident staff of the city hospital for three years; research fellow and associate attending physician at the Presbyterian Hospital, New York, and instructor at Columbia University Medical School for three years, and acting head of the Department of Medicine of Washington University and physician-in-chief at Barnes Hospital for two years. He served during the late war as a Major in the army and was a member of several important commissions, among which was the commission for the study of the influenza epidemic.

In announcing the appointment of Dr. Kinsella, Dr. Hanau W. Loe, Dean of the St. Louis University School of Medicine, also said that a full-time department of medicine, modified to the end that the full-time man retains his private practice, but only within the institution, is being organized for the university group. A number of additional clinicians and instructors on a full-time basis already have been retained, among them Dr. G. O. Brown, who has been associated with Rockefeller Institute, Boston City Hospital, and Harvard University Medical School.

Enrollment of Defectives Gains.
By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, March 12.—Enrollment of mentally defective children in the United States increased from 18,217 in 29 institutions in 1920, to 23,393 in 214 schools in 1922; and during the last four years has shown a gain of 15 per cent. The figures, issued today by the Federal Bureau of Education, were cited as indicating growing interest on the part of the State, city and private organizations in provisions for subnormal children. The increase, it was added, does not mean that the percentage of defective children has grown, but merely that the enrollment of them has extended.

Clare Sheridan Says Lady Astor Rallies British Women Into Unit

Feminine Members of Parliament, Led by 'Mother of the House,' Bound by Tradition of 'Burning Sincerity'.

By CLARE SHERIDAN.
LONDON, Feb. 14.—Last year 33 women stood for Parliament, and three were returned. This year there were 34 and eight were returned. It would have been difficult to choose eight women with more outstanding personalities. They are, however, merged together, irrespective of party by the binding web of feminism.

They are already conspicuous in a quarrelsome, jealous and party political world by their extraordinary unity as a body. "How those women do stand together!" or "How inseparable those women are!" one hears from the male members.

Lady Astor as 'Mother of the House' envelopes them in her maternal spirit. More interesting even than Margaret Bondfield's maiden speech in the House, was Nancy Astor's face watching her with rapid interest and admiration. Nancy's political children adore her. This is a particularly high tribute from Labor women, and those who were concerned in the Woman Suffrage movement.

Impish Fate Gave First Chance to Nancy Astor.
THERE were women like Mrs. Fawcett, Margaret Bondfield and Mary MacArthur, who were veterans of the Woman Suffrage movement, women with political experience and who were conspicuous in British public life, who had every right and reason to expect to be the first women in Parliament.

But Fate plays impish tricks. It was Nancy Astor described by them as "a society hostess" who got in instead. Joy that a first woman had been elected to Parliament was tempered with disappointment by those who had worked so untiringly for the woman's cause.

In the course of two years, however, matters changed. Nancy Astor proved herself. She, little by little, won over all the onlookers who were critical, resentful and churchish. They admitted that "Lady Astor always seems to do the right thing, though she often does the unexpected thing."

The other women realized that she was doing all the work they had dreamed that the first woman in Parliament should do, and more than they ever dreamed a single woman could do. Whenever the women's organizations wanted something done (and they always wanted a multitude), Nancy Astor was always ready to do it.

A 'Howl of Joy' That Has Failed to Go Up.
HAD she broken down under the strain "a howl of joy," as one of them put it to me, "would have gone up from those who were waiting to point out that Parliament was no place for a lady."

SAYS IRISH ARMY LOOKS TO COLLINS AS 'SPIRITUAL CHIEF'

Gen. Tobin, Leader in Mutiny, Ascribes British Have Broken Treaty Promises.

By the Associated Press.
DUBLIN, March 12.—The mutinous activity in the army continued today the absorbing topic of interest in Dublin.

Gen. Tobin and Col. Dalton, who recently wrote the Free State Government demanding discussion of the Anglo-Irish treaty provisions on behalf of the army, have withdrawn their letters and apologized to President Cosgrave, it was stated in well-informed quarters this afternoon.

Gen. Tobin, in explaining his action in forwarding the letter, told newspaper men that the trouble in the army was not of recent date nor was it connected with the recent forced demobilization of numerous officers. Shortly after the death of Michael Collins, Tobin said, those who accepted the treaty position and the interpretation of the Irish people of the treaty became alarmed at the manner in which the national situation was allowed to drift.

Former British officers, he said, were placed in high positions while those who had made the Free State Government possible were forced out or put in minor positions. "Guarantees repeatedly were promised, but the promises always were broken."

"The army still looks to Collins as its spiritual leader," declared Tobin. "We mean to stand loyal to the program he mapped out for the building up of the nation and restoring Irish national traditions."

MAN WANTED HERE ON MAIL FRAUD CHARGE, ARRESTED

H. H. Mason, Who Operated Fake Grocery Business at 1007 Franklin, Found in Buffalo.

Herschel H. Mason, 26-year-old specialist in using the mails to defraud, ex-convict and fugitive from justice, has been arrested at Buffalo, N. Y. His last activity was to set up in business at 1007 Franklin avenue as "C. W. Horn," sending out extra-size postcards to Illinois housewives advertising a bonus of 35 pounds of sugar with every order for a $9.99 selected list of groceries.

When postoffice inspectors started embarrassing inquiries he departed, leaving $1200 on deposit in a bank here. Postoffice Inspector Noah trailed him to Buffalo and wired District Attorney Curry day that Mason was arrested.

Federal authorities say Mason's record is as follows: 1914, offered free trips to San Francisco for subscriptions to "Reliable Poultry Journal," Kansas City, but failed to provide the trips; 1915, made fake offers as "Majestic Squab Co., Adel, Ia., for which he was fined $300 later; 1917, as H. C. Mayson, offered kaffir corn at low prices at Malvern, Ark., but failed to fill orders, for which he served 18 months in the Atlanta (Ga.) Federal penitentiary; 1920, conducted fake "Quality Chick Co., at Des Moines, Ia., for which he was sentenced to 18 months in Leavenworth penitentiary, but jumped a $6000 appeal bond; 1921, indicted for fraud in "National Chick Co., at Kansas City, but jumped a $2500 bond; 1922, disappeared from Cleveland, leaving $10,000 in banks, when Federal inquiry was started in "King Hatchery."

STRIKERS STORM BUILDING

75 Negro Laborers Drive Off 16 Nonunion Workers.

Considerable excitement, which resulted in a hurry call for the police, was caused at 10 a. m. today by about 75 negroes, said to be striking building laborers, stormed the building of the Tate Motor Co., under construction at Washington and Channing avenues, and chased 16 nonunion negro laborers off the job. No one was injured and the strikers escaped before the police arrived.

The striking laborers are members of the local Building Laborers' Union, which recently refused a 10 cents an hour increase in wages following rejection of their demand for an increase from 67 1/2 to 87 1/2 cents an hour.

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion—an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble, and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung disease and is excellent for building up the system after illness or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga.

NEW ORDINANCE FOR ABATEMENT OF SMOKE FRAMED

Commissioner and Eight Inspectors Provided For in Measure Likely to Be Offered Friday.

SEPARATE DIVISION FOR WORK CREATED

Three Mechanical Engineers to Constitute Board Passing on All Cases Before Prosecution Is Begun.

A new smoke abatement ordinance, providing for a commissioner and eight inspectors to enforce it, and making them a part of the Department of Public Safety, will probably be reported to the Board of Aldermen Friday by the Board of Public Safety Committee. The measure was agreed on yesterday by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, in conference with the Public Safety committee and representatives of business bodies.

The present smoke inspection division is under the division of business and elevators of the Department of Public Safety, and some of those interested in smoke abatement have complained that the branch has been treated "like a stepchild." It has been proposed that in creating a new smoke abatement office, it should be made independent of the city department, but Mayor Kiel objected to this, saying he would "get all the best in the form of complaints, if that were done."

The new department division was also proposed that it be made a part of the Department of Public Utilities, but the decision reached yesterday was to make it a division under the Department of Public Safety, co-ordinate with the Fire Department, the building and boiler inspection divisions.

The commissioner in charge will receive a salary of $4,000 a year, eight inspectors $175 a month, a clerk $150 and a stenographer $100.

It was provided that a board of three mechanical engineers shall be named, and that before prosecution is instituted in any case, this board shall pass on the matter and shall decide whether, in that case, smoke elimination is practicable. The board is to meet twice a month, and members will receive $10 a meeting.

Provides for Fines.

This part of the measure was suggested by A. J. Davis, representative of the manufacturers. Davis also suggested that the ordinance should require use of smoke prevention devices only in new installations. He said this would accomplish the desired result within 15 years, and that many small manufacturers cannot afford to install prevention devices immediately. This suggestion was rejected. John H. Gundlach and other antismoke workers objecting to it.

The Mayor said he could not see how the brick industry could be operated without smoke, and said strict enforcement of the law would drive that industry out of the city.

The measure provides a fine of $250 to $500 for violation.

CHICAGO WOMAN JUDGE WHO IS HERE

MISS MARY BARTHELME. PRAISES ST. LOUIS' METHOD OF HANDLING DELINQUENTS

Judge Mary Barthelme of Chicago Approves Plan of Sending Children to Own Homes.

Miss Mary Barthelme, Judge of the Juvenile Court in Chicago, after watching the handling of the Juvenile Court docket here today, said she was most favorably impressed with the St. Louis system of sending delinquents to their own homes to be brought up under supervision of a Probation Officer, rather than committing them to some city institution.

"We try to do that as much as possible in Chicago, too," she said, "but we find in so many cases that the parents of such children are unfit, mentally or morally, to properly raise their children. It is much better to have the children cared for by their own parents than to turn them into city institutions."

Judge Barthelme said her viewpoint on the disposition of wards of the Juvenile Court coincides with that of Judge Oving. She said Chicago's greatest problem concerning juvenile delinquents was the handling of feeble-minded children, for which there is a lack of facilities. Judge Barthelme was the guest of the League of Women Voters at a luncheon today at Hotel Statler.

MAN, WIFE AND ANOTHER WOMAN MURDERED IN HOME

Couple Shot and the Other Is Slain With Adz, Apparently by a Maniac.

LINDEN, N. Y., March 12.—Three persons, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Whalley and Mrs. Mabel Morse, old residents of this village, 10 miles south of Batavia, were slain last night, apparently by a maniac. Mr. and Mrs. Whalley were shot dead and Mrs. Morse was beaten to death with the handle of an adz.

The crime in many respects is similar to the slaying here in October, 1922, of Miss Frances Kimball, a spinster, who was beaten to death in the cellar of her home where she lived alone. This crime never solved. Mr. and Mrs. Whalley lived alone about five minutes' walk from the village store. Whalley was a section foreman. A grocery boy, finding the doors of the house locked, raised a kitchen window and was met by a rush of smoke. He called neighbors and they broke open the rear door. In a bedroom on the ground floor they found three bodies piled on the floor. Over them had been thrown rag rugs in which there was a smoldering blaze. Oil had been poured on the carpets and bed, but not enough to cause the blaze to spread rapidly.

An overturned chair and a pitcher of milk upset on the table which had been prepared for the evening meal indicated that the Whalleys had been killed in the kitchen and their bodies dragged to the bedroom. Otherwise the furniture of the place had not been disturbed.

Mrs. Morse, the wife of a village grocer, went to the house to get milk when what Whalley supplied the store.

ESTATE OF FRED S. CHARLOT IS INVENTORIED AT $835,116

Property of Man Who Ended Life Includes $773,750 In Stock of Ozark Coughing Co.

An inventory of the estate of Fred S. Charlott, who killed himself with morphine in a Pullman room Feb. 3, filed in Probate Court at Clayton today, values his estate at $835,116.

This includes stock of the Ozark Coughing & Lumber Co., which went into receivership under his presidency, listed at its par value, to the amount of $773,750. Other items are: $25,000 in bonds of the Cairo, Truman & Southern Railroad Co.; $36 cash in bank; and a residence at 6941 Princeton avenue, University City. Oil and other stocks held to be worth $12,170, are listed.

Charlott will left the residence to his widow, who is executrix, and the rest of his property to her, including a son and a daughter, one of the sons being by a former marriage. Charlott left $250,000 life insurance, in favor of the Ozark company, but it is not known whether he ever talked of sacrificing himself for the good of the company.

Those With Power to Make Appointments Consider "Trading" to Get Relatives on Public Payroll.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 12.—Interest among State officials and employees in the proposed constitutional amendments, which had waned since the election Feb. 26 last, under the impression that virtually all of the amendments had been swamped with negative votes, revived suddenly when the official canvass yesterday disclosed the antinepotism amendment, No. 18, was among the six approved.

This amendment is designed to put an end to the practice of some State officials in loading up the public payroll with relatives, and would make the penalty for such distribution of largess among relatives, forfeiture of the official's office. Thus far there has been no official legal interpretation of the scope of the amendment and several department heads today indicated the amendment, have expressed the Attorney-General an opinion defining the amendment.

Opinions as to Effect.

Attorneys have expressed the view that the provisions of the amendment would not be restrictive and would not affect employees of the State now holding office, for the period of their present terms. Members of the Constitutional Convention, which drafted the amendment, have expressed the view the amendment would apply only to appointments made after March 27, the effective date of the amendments adopted.

Neptism makes its most marked appearance at the State Capitol during sessions of the Legislature, when Senators and Representatives make a practice of attaching two, three and even more relatives to the payroll of the small army of clerks and attaches of the Legislature. Criticism has arisen in several instances because these additions to the payroll were not regularly present at the State Capitol, although drawing their salaries.

State Auditor Hackman and Secretary of State Becker today called attention to their departments being free from appointments of their relatives.

Governor Put Brother in Office.

Among the appointments which would be affected, if the amendment were retroactive, is that of Ben C. Hyde, brother of Gov. Hyde, as superintendent of the insurance department at a salary of $2,000 a year.

In the Supreme Court relatives of Judge Graves, Judge Woodson and Commissioner Small and Lind are employed in various capacities. Similar appointments are or have been in effect in the State Treasurer's department, Department of Education, Finance department and numerous boards and bureaus. Relatives as far removed as first cousins will be under the ban for future public employment.

RATS THRIVED ON 'SURE KILLER'

Believing he has been swindled out of 50 cents and an hour's pay, Joseph H. Schweikert, 2913 South Broadway, has turned over to police for chemical analysis a bottle of what was represented to him as a "sure killer" rat poison. Schweikert says a little man with a black grip entered his store the other day and asked: "Have you got any rats?" "I'm the original rat killer," then, taking a greenish bottle from the grip, "See this—it's sure death to rats."

It happened that Schweikert has been troubled with rats and mice, so he bought the bottle and spread the contents around the store. No deaths resulted; if anything, the rodents became fatter and more plentiful. Schweikert, failing to get the "original rat killer," called in police.

"CORN'S" Lift Off—No Pain!

Doesn't hurt one bit! Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers.

Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the foot calluses, without soreness or irritation.

How to Make Pine Cough Syrup at Home

Has no equal for prompt results. Takes but a moment to prepare, and saves you about $2.

Pine is used in nearly all prescriptions and remedies for coughs. The reason is that pine contains several elements that have a remarkable effect in soothing and healing the membranes of the throat and chest.

Pine cough syrups are combinations of pine and sugar. The "syrup" part is usually plain sugar syrup.

To make the best pine cough remedy that money can buy, put 2½ ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle, and fill up with home-made sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you make a full pint—more than you can buy ready-made for three times the price. It is pure, good and tastes very pleasant.

You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold in a way that means business. The cough may be dry, hoarse and tight or may be persistent, loose from the formation of phlegm. The cause is the same—inflamed membranes—and this Pinex and Syrup combination will stop it—usually in 24 hours or less. Splendid, too, for bronchial asthma, hoarseness, or any ordinary throat ailment.

Pinex is highly concentrated corn oil of genuine Norway pine extract, and is famous the world over for its prompt effect upon coughs.

Beware of substitutes. Ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. You don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

PUSH BUTTON BANK ALARM SHOOTS BLANK CARTRIDGES

Theory That Fusillade Would Put Robbers to Flight; to Be Made Food-Proof.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 12.—An automatic regular alarm for banks which fires blank cartridges simultaneously in all the money cases and from the direction of all doors, is among the protective devices under test in the laboratories of the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

Rapid fire automatic pistols set off by push buttons distributed throughout the bank constitute the alarm feature of the system. The theory of the inventor is that the fusillade will put the robbers to flight.

The mechanism, housed in a small steel box beneath the teller's window, is operated on the cartridge belt principle of the machine gun. As many firing boxes as are desired may be installed, and the trigger button may be distributed to every employee.

Improvements to make the device fool-proof through perfection of the timing of the firing, and the trigger button may be distributed to every employee.

Some modifications would be necessary also, he said, in the increase ordered by the House in the excise and miscellaneous taxes.

The Secretary condemned the Longworth compromise on the income tax rate schedule and criticized House amendments which increased estate taxes, created a gift tax and opened tax returns to inspection by congressional committees.

Coolidge Message Attacked.

While Secretary Mellon was firing a broadside at the revenue bill, Senate Democrats turned their big guns on the President's message urging a joint resolution to make tax reduction apply to incomes payable next Saturday.

Meanwhile, with only three days left for action such as the President recommended, the leaders showed little disposition to start on such a course.

In the Senate the question of Mr. Coolidge's message was brought up by Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, who said he believed Mr. Coolidge knew it would be impossible to obtain the action requested in the time available. He charged the President merely wanted a free hand to veto the bill.

"The President's special message urging the passage prior to the 15th of legislation reduction for the calendar year 1933 income taxes 25 per cent comes too late," Robinson said.

"Several months ago, in the body at the other end of the Capitol, the ranking Democratic member of the Ways and Means Committee, Representative Garner of Texas, realizing that the bill to provide for the reduction of Federal taxes would occasion prolonged consideration and could not pass in time to afford relief for the calendar year 1932, suggested and obtained the passage of a separate measure to reduce the taxes for the year 1932."

The President did not then think enough of the suggestion to take any action.

"It would be interesting to know why he has waited so long and how far political consideration prompted the message. Had such a message been received 30 days ago, action could have been taken."

"Since the Constitution requires that bills for raising revenues must originate in the House it is not possible to take any action here, otherwise than an effort would be made to have the Senate process with the consideration of a measure for the reduction of taxes for 1932."

Mellon's views were sought by the committee preparatory to the consideration of the rate schedule in the tax bill. The Secretary and Undersecretary Winston were asked to further amplify their statements before the committee later this week.

Mellon's Objections to Bill Passed by House.

"On the bill as it passed the House," said Secretary Mellon to the Finance Committee today, "I make:

"1. The loss of revenue will be $450,000,000. There will be no stimulation to revenue-producing transactions because there is no material reduction in surtaxes. If the bill should become a law, a deficit would inevitably result and it would be necessary to find other means of raising revenue."

"2.—Surtaxes. If the rates had been properly scaled in the 1921 act, it might be possible to make an intelligent percentage reduction, but the bill simply continues the defect in the present law and penalizes principally middle income taxpayers. With unscientific tax rates, the burden is borne by the man of initiative attempting to make money—not by wealth in extent. It is my opinion that the 25 per cent scale down of surtaxes will have no material bearing on releasing capital, but, on the contrary, the flight of capital will continue. Particularly is this true because Congress has refused to recommend a constitutional amendment to prevent further issuance of tax-exempt securities."

"3. The definition of earned income has been extended to include cases where the income is the result of the use of the capital in connection with personal services,

HOUSE TAX BILL MEANS A DEFICIT, MELLON WARNS

Tells Finance Committee of Senate Measure Would Cause Loss in Revenue of $450,000,000.

ASSAULTS COMPROMISE ON INCOME RATE

Also Criticizes Gift Tax and Urges Modifications in Excise and Miscellaneous Levies.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Revision of the revenue bill passed by the House must be made to prevent a Treasury deficit, Secretary Mellon today told the Senate Finance Committee.

The House bill would mean a loss in revenue of about $450,000,000, Mellon said, against an estimated surplus of $395,000,000 for the fiscal year 1935, under existing law.

Some modifications would be necessary also, he said, in the increase ordered by the House in the excise and miscellaneous taxes.

The Secretary condemned the Longworth compromise on the income tax rate schedule and criticized House amendments which increased estate taxes, created a gift tax and opened tax returns to inspection by congressional committees.

BOUNCING AUTO BOUNCES PATROLMAN OFF FORCE

Richard Ray, Whose Machine Hit Another, Had Partaken of Cherry Bounce.

The Board of Police Commissioners yesterday bounced Patrolman Richard Ray of the Wyoming street district who last Friday partook of cherry bounce and bounced his Ford against another machine on Russell avenue, near Thirty-ninth street. Albert Fletcher, owner of the other automobile, testified that Ray fled from the scene and that he chased him in his crippled car, finally causing his arrest after several street corner arguments.

"But those cherries—" Ray began.

"Never mind the cherries," said President Brockman. "You've pleaded guilty. You are dismissed."

Patrolman William Kreuger and Arthur Rathert of the Third district were dismissed for being absent from their beats from 2:15 until 4:40 a. m., March 2.

Opposes Opening Tax Books.

"4. Publicity of Returns.—So far as I know, in all other nations having income tax laws, the privacy of returns is respected. The provision in the present bill removes this privacy so far as certain committees of Congress are concerned. This would not be objectionable if the returns were submitted to the committees only in executive session, and mention of the returns on the floor of Congress and the publication thereof in the Congressional Record prevented."

"5. Estate Taxes. With no hearing before a committee, there was incorporated in the revenue bill an increase in inheritance taxes from a maximum of 25 per cent to a maximum of 40 per cent. In my opinion, such legislation is most unwise. The right of the Federal Government to tax inheritances is based upon no specific constitutional power, but upon the theory of an 'excise' tax. They have, heretofore, been used only as war taxes and should be preserved for such use."

"Inheritance taxes are properly sources of revenue for the states. They are a material element in a state budget; they are a comparatively small element in the Federal budget. To deprive the states of this source of revenue—properly their own—is to compel the states to increase taxes and to resort to their principal sources of income which is levied on hand."

Far-reaching Economic Effect.

The far-reaching economic effect of high inheritance taxes is not properly understood. These taxes are a levy upon capital. In other words, capital is being destroyed for current expenses and the cumulative effect of such destruction cannot help but be harmful to the country. Again, estates have to be liquidated to the extent necessary to provide for taxes and the foresale of property and securities tends to bring down not only the value of such property and securities, but values everywhere.

"6. Tax on Gifts. This tax is a tax on capital, the proceeds of which do not go into capital and therefore work a destruction of the total capital of the country. Any annual tax on gifts is susceptible of evasion by spreading the gifts over a period of years. It will mean practically nothing by way of revenue to the Government. It will be extremely difficult to detect and enforce."

"7. Miscellaneous Taxes. The reduction of these taxes depends entirely upon the available revenue of the Government. Since this revenue is unequal to the proposed reduction, some modification in these respects should be made."

BILL FOR BUILDINGS 250 FEET HIGH SIGNED

Maximum to Apply to Structures Facing Three Streets—200-Foot Limit for Hotels.

Mayor Kiel today signed the bill fixing the height limit for buildings at 250 feet, in the case of hotels, office, mercantile and manufacturing buildings, and 200 feet where the building faces three streets. For other buildings, including apartment houses, the limit is 150 feet. The bill goes into effect in 30 days.

The zoning ordinance, which fixed different height limits in different parts of the city, made 150 feet the maximum. Members of the City Plan Commission, who hold that the height provisions of the zoning ordinance are still in effect, urged the Mayor not to sign the present measure.

The zoning ordinance was declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court, but the question involved was that of use of land, and the members of the Commission hold that the height and area restrictions were not affected. The new measure, in any case, will supersede the height restrictions of the zoning ordinance.

Harland Bartholomew, engineer of the City Plan Commission, and E. J. Russell, chairman of the Commission, in urging the Mayor to veto the measure, argued that high buildings were the chief cause of congestion in the downtown district, and the chief factor in creating a serious traffic problem. They urged that he should adhere to the principles of the zoning ordinance, and expressed the belief that he had committed himself to doing so.

The Mayor's office collected figures as to height limits in other cities, while he had the bill under consideration. The returns of this inquiry showed that Chicago had a limit of 250 feet, Cleveland 250 feet, Philadelphia, San Francisco and Cincinnati no limit, New York a limit of twice the street width, and Buffalo a limit of four times the frontage.

"The city has lost buildings by the height restrictions of the zoning law," the Mayor said today. "It has handicapped the city commercially. I think I have done what is best for the city."

The bill was prepared by Director McQuay of the Department of Public Safety. He has acted on the theory that the former height restriction was abolished by the decision in the zoning law case, and that unless a new measure were enacted, the city would be without any legal restriction on height of buildings.

The height of the Railway Exchange Building, highest of St. Louis office buildings, is 230 feet, the same as the limit established in the new ordinance for new structures facing on three streets.

FILM ACTRESS GETS 10-YEAR SENTENCE FOR WORK AS SPY

Correspondence of the Associated Press.
LEIPZIG, Feb. 13.—Alvine Bauls, the film actress spy, who was recently sentenced to prison for 10 years because of her activities on behalf of the French during the war, came to grief through her diary.

The woman worked for the French in Dusseldorf, Aachen and Nice. Her beautiful diary, it is possible for her to attract many men and the diary which proved her undoing showed she was frequently torn between many love affairs and had great difficulty in controlling her heart. With singular childishness she recorded her emotions as well as the facts concerning her spy work in this diary, which fell into the hands of German officers.

She worked much of the time with a German medical student, who was also sentenced to prison for complicity in her espionage for which the evidence showed the woman received $100 a month. She also involved another medical student in her work, but the two students, fought about the woman and the one who lost out managed to escape from her clutches before he was hopelessly entangled in her career of espionage.

Prominent French diplomats and many officers of various armies are mentioned in the diary among the men who succumbed to her charms.

SUTCLIFFE SENTENCED TO SIX MONTHS FOR MANSLAUGHTER

Former St. Louisan, Accused of Having Bogus Diploma, Operated as Veteran in Connecticut.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
HARTFORD, Conn., March 12.—George M. Sutcliffe of Unionville, who pleaded nolo contendere when he was arraigned in Superior Court here yesterday on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of Albert Hoody of Farmington, last May, was sentenced by Judge William M. Malt, to six months in jail.

The basis of the charge against Sutcliffe was that on Aug. 22, 1922, he gave to Hoody, a World War veteran, an overdose of an anesthetic while attempting to amputate a finger. Hoody died while being operated on.

Sutcliffe had a medical college diploma which he obtained at St. Louis, Mo., and it has been charged that the diploma was based on fraudulent credits. He testified last December before the extraordinary grand jury which conducted an investigation of State fake diplomas sold in Missouri and later his license to practice in Connecticut was revoked.

SENTI WILL SUCCEED HAID AS COUNSELLOR

Mayor Announces Associate to City Official Will Take Over Office March 31.

Mayor Kiel announced today that Oliver G. Senti, first Associate City Counsellor, will be appointed City Counsellor to succeed George F. Haid, who has resigned to enter private business. Haid's resignation will become effective March 31, whereupon Senti will take the office.

Senti is 48 years old and lives with his family at 4329 Juniata street. He has been first associate to City Counsellor Haid about two years, and has been in the City Counsellor's office since 1916. He was admitted to the bar in 1900 but did not begin the practice of law until 1912. Prior to 1912 he was chief clerk in the department of weights of the Merchants' Exchange.

Haid, the retiring City Counsellor, tendered his resignation yesterday to Mayor Kiel with the announcement that he desired to enter private business, as vice president of the Victor Motors, Inc., truck manufacturers, of which he is a stockholder. He was appointed City Counsellor Oct. 1, 1922, and prior to that time was first associate to City Counsellor Caulfield.

The office of City Counsellor pays a salary of $8000 a year.

"Shortly after this Gus' men found, raided and destroyed a monster still, belonging to Weeke's brother, Frank. It was the largest still ever captured here and probably cost $40,000.

"Weeke formed a close alliance with 'Lay' Morse, another deadly political enemy of the Hyde administration. De Hart, the beer protection story and De Hart filed it formally in Washington, after relating all of the sordid details of Weeke's story. De Hart closed the letter to Commissioner Haynes like this: 'I find evidence to corroborate this story. I get my information from Hank Weeke, a professional politician, but a square, honest man.'"

"Maj. Haynes demanded a quick investigation and an exoneration of Gus or the substantiation of the report.

"After a preliminary examination had revealed nothing, Mr. Nolan came on the scene. Shortly thereafter reliable information reached me the Griesedieck Brewery was making beer. Acting upon the information I conveyed to them, my brother's men watched the brewery constantly until they caught it at work and closed it, arresting everybody at work here.

About Raid On Brewery.

"Now about the Nations' raid and the proposed Nolan raid on the Griesedieck Brewery. Gus and his men got to the brewery at 9:25 in the morning. They caught a truckload of beer going out and 300 cases still in the brewery, of which 90 cases already were sealed and cased. Thirty-nine men were working on the conveyor. The beer was all bottled. If each man could fill a case in five minutes with bottles, which is ample time, the beer all would have been gone and the premises clear before 10 o'clock.

"At 11:05 o'clock Nolan came

WAR RECORD OF CLAIMANT NOT FOUND

Legion Officials Get Report on Man in St. Clair County Hospital With Frozen Hands.

Milton Scott, the man now in the St. Clair County Farm Hospital with frozen hands after being refused aid here, has no war record that Red Cross and army officials have been able to determine. It is stated in a circular letter received by American League officials in East St. Louis and the Red Cross offices at Belleville from the Central Division of the Red Cross at Chicago.

The letter declares that Scott, or Richardson, as it is said he has sometimes been known, has been soliciting aid since 1922 for injuries, including the loss of his nose, which he says were suffered in the war. The Veterans' Bureau at Minneapolis, from where he says he once drew compensation, has written it has no knowledge of the man. Because of these disclosures, the American Legion and the Belleville Red Cross have decided they can advance no organization funds to Scott unless it is established that he saw army service.

Superintendent I. H. Howard of the County Farm at Belleville, feels differently, however. "We will continue to take care of him, and give him the same treatment as if he was an army Colonel," Supt. Howard declared. "The man is to lose some of his frozen fingers soon, and he can stay here just as long as he's not able to care for himself."

Mrs. W. F. Snyder, executive secretary of the St. Clair County Chapter of the Red Cross, said she regretted the organization's inability to use its funds to help a man in Scott's condition. Mrs. Nat Brown, president of the Children of America Loyalty League, announced the local organization would send Scott $10 today. "We would rather make a mistake in sending money to a man who did not deserve it than withhold funds from one who did," she said.

with his men to make the raid. Now, the strange thing about Mr. Nolan's statement is that he had gathered here a large group of general agents from all over Missouri. They were parked in the Federal Building under his orders, with specific instructions not to stir until he led them. He had information the brewery was to run. The brewery ran. It hauled beer away. At 11:05, after the beer would all have been gone and the coast clear but for the Nations raid, Nolan led his men in a gallant charge on the brewery.

"But now another strange incident marks Mr. Nolan's conduct. He rushes back to the Federal Building and takes Ray Griesedieck, who made the famous confession to E. Mont' Rely, away from Nations' men and rushed him up to his (Nolan's) private office for a conference. Nations, who had caught the brewers with the goods and had them under arrest, missed Griesedieck and was told that Nolan had taken him. On arriving at Nolan's office and asking for Griesedieck, Nolan said he had turned him loose.

"Without having given bond, Nolan had released Nations' prisoner. It was necessary to send out and rearrest him.

"The officers who raided the brewery are agreed that there would have been no beer there by 10 o'clock and Mr. Nolan's men got there at 11:05.

The Griesedieck Confession.

"Things were in desperate straits. Nations' raid had ruined the plans, whatever they were. Indignation for Nations was not inspired because he protected the brewery, but because he caught it. Something must be done. Comes now E. Mont' Rely on the scene. He confers with Griesedieck.

"A statement is arranged for the brewer that Nolan tore from Nations' men and turned loose after a private conference, to sign.

"That statement, if believed, will remove Nations from a position where he can interfere with Rely's plans and will wreck the administration of his and Morse's old political enemy, Gov. Hyde, by disgracing two of the Governor's prominent officials and closest friends and advisors.

"When the statement was put into satisfactory shape, Rely gets Attorney-General Daugherty's office to order Special Assistant John C. Drott to give the brewery immunity from prosecution, to this in and make this statement so that it can be published.

"The result is that the Government has granted or sought to grant through E. Mont' Rely, immunity from prosecution, to this brewery, although its officers have been caught twice making and selling beer, and also admitted an attempt to bribe, though this may have been a simple matter of perjury or compliance with requirements."

The Post-Dispatch was in error in stating yesterday that Heber Nations, State Labor Commissioner, occupied an office in Kansas City jointly with Charles S. Prather, State Food and Drug Commissioner. It is the Industrial Inspection Department, not the Labor Statistics Bureau, the latter headed by Nations, which shares the office of the Food and Drug Commissioner in the Sheldley Building, Kansas City.

"Hank" Weeke Says He Knows Nothing About Griesedieck Brewery.

Henry L. (Hank) Weeke, St. Louis Republican politician named by L. F. Delhart, Federal Prohibition Director in Missouri, as the man who first gave him the information that State officials were affording protection to the Griesedieck Brewery, last night said he knew nothing about the Griesedieck brewery.

Weeke did not amplify the statement, which did not deny that he had given Delhart certain information which had come into his possession regarding protection given for the sale of beer in St. Louis.

Ministers of Christian Church to Support Gus Nations.

A committee of ministers of the Christian, or Disciples, Church, will render "moral and any other support possible" to Gus O. Nations, Chief Prohibition Enforcement Officer, in the pending "beer" inquiry. Nations is a member of Hamilton Avenue Christian Church, and the Christian Disciples held a special meeting yesterday at Dover Place Church, at which the committee were wholly favorable to Nations in whom the ministers expressed full confidence. The committee consists of the Rev. George A. Campbell of Unionville Church, the Rev. G. M. Johnson of Maplewood, and the Rev. G. Johnston of Lillias Church.

This is Tom, owned by Anheuser-Busch and said to be the largest ox in the world. He is six feet six inches in height, nine feet eight inches from stem to stern, and weighs 3,000 pounds. The trekking cart is the type used throughout Mexico in primitive days. It is constructed entirely of wood—even wooden pegs being used in place of nuts and bolts. Built by Anheuser-Busch for advertising purposes.

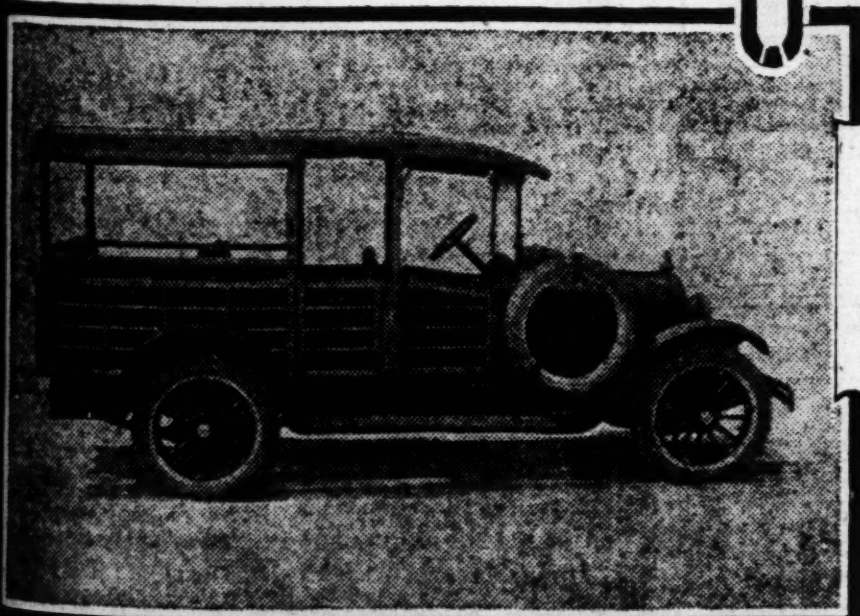

The Lamstead Kamplar body weighs less than a Ford Sedan, yet can be quickly converted into a restful, convenient camp—anywhere! Provides ample seating room for six. Busch-built armored trucks like this one provide protection for cashiers, bank messengers, etc., and assure safe transportation of large sums from one place to another, regardless of the depredations of pay-roll bandits.

The Rancher, a Busch-built body for country clubs, suburban and country homes, can be driven through parks where commercial trucks can't go. The compact equipment of this body is ideally suited to the uses of hunters and fishermen.

Busch-built bus bodies like this one are used for short passenger hauls where train facilities are inadequate. Motor bus companies are finding them as durable and economical as they are distinctive in appearance.

Familiar as we all are with the size of Anheuser-Busch, few realize the varied activities made possible by the manufacturing and distributing facilities of this organization, and the many ways in which Busch-built truck and passenger car bodies contribute to human health, happiness and profit.

Yet today you find Busch-built bodies in practically every city and town from Broadway to the Golden Gate, helping to speed up transportation and facilitate the movement of goods to millions of people.

Trucks with bodies of Anheuser-Busch design and manufacture deliver the foods we eat, the clothes we wear, the furniture that makes our homes so cheerful and inviting. The bodies of busses that carry children across long stretches of open country road to the school-house miles away—Rancher bodies that bring the comforts and conveniences of the city to suburban and country homes—Kamplar bodies for vacationists, hunters and fishermen—these too are products of this organization.

The experience of sixty years devoted to the manufacture of rolling stock and delivery equipment for our own branches is behind each Busch-built body.

Sisler Names Team for First Game With Mobile; Will Be On First Himself, Rice at Third

Infected Finger May Interfere With Plan to Try Rice at the Hot Corner — Manager Thinks Browns' Reserve Strength Better Than in Past Years.

By J. Roy Stockton,
Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff.

MOBILE, Ala., March 12.—George Sisler will be at first base, Sunday afternoon, when the Browns oppose the Mobile Bears in the first exhibition game of the season. The regular outfield will be on duty, and the men who start in the inner line of defense will be the men who Sisler wants to see form the regular infield. Marty McManus will perform at second base, Walter Gerber at short and Harry Rice at third base.

Severely probably will be behind the bat and two or three pitchers will share the afternoon's work. Rice's appearance at third depends on whether an infected finger heals between now and Sunday. Trainer Brammel took Rice to a surgeon last night to have the finger lanced, but it is hoped that the cut will heal by Sunday. If Rice is unable to play, any one of the other four candidates for the position may start and it is probably that more than one man will appear at the position, regardless of who starts.

Third Sackers All Look Good.
Sisler said the five third-base candidates were all so promising that those who failed in the battle for the regular job probably would be retained as utility infielders. There must be a man available to take the place of McManus or Gerber if either should be injured.

"That's where our team is stronger than last year or even 1922," said Sisler, discussing his reserve material. "We will have a good reserve men for the outfield or infield, better pinch hitters and better emergency base-runners than we had in 1922 or 1923. In those years the Browns were sadly lacking in reserves."

"It is certain also that we will be stronger in the outfield. I like the way Bennett fields and runs and believe he will be a big help to me. Also I expect Joe Evans to be an invaluable asset."

The Mystery of Joe Evans.
There is something mysterious about the way Evans talked himself into being given his unconditional release at Washington. Sisler disclosed yesterday that he had tried all winter to obtain Evans from Washington, but could not come to terms with the Senators. Then Joe was released and signed without the necessity of putting up a purchase price. Evans does not look like he is "through" as a ballplayer. He still hits the ball hard, can run like a deer and is regarded as a smart player. He has not reached a point in his training where it can be determined whether he can throw. Cold weather yesterday interfered with plans for a practice game and the afternoon devoted to large part to batting practice, with the pitchers, of course, taking their daily turn on the mound.

First the youngsters batted and then the veterans. While the boys were batting Sisler had his infield regulars in the field, with Schleimer and himself alternating at making plays at first base. George has started the training of Schleimer. While it is plain that George intends to hope to start the season at his old position, he is not taking any chances and will devote much time to improving Schleimer's form.

Tuffy Tyrrell, the catcher picked up by Sisler in California, has recovered from the shoulder injury and looks like a good prospect. He hits the ball hard in batting practice. He is still favoring the swinging arm, but it is easy to see why he attracted the attention of Sisler. He is further advanced than most young catchers and undoubtedly the Browns will use him as a regular when they send him out. He is built along the lines of the gangling Hank Gowdy.

The young pitchers in camp look better every day. Sisler likes Wingo, Wilson and Grant.

Boys Must "Get Busy."
Young William Bayne, after four years in the big league, during which he has won about a dozen games and yet remained satisfied with himself, has been ordered to get disinterested, get off the rut or prepare for trip to the pincus. Bayne has all the stuff in the world, and this year appears to be taking things seriously. Sisler must have taken out the time tables and shown Bill that he meant business.

Forty-Eight Teams Enter Washington U. Basketball Tourney

So great was the response to Washington University's invitation to high school basketball teams to compete in the Mississippi Valley championship tournament that it has been found necessary to alter plans for the meet which opens tomorrow afternoon. Forty-eight teams entered this year as compared with 21 the first year, 1921. Play will open tomorrow at 1 p. m. at Francis Gymnasium at the Washington campus and at Howard Gymnasium at Principia Academy. Last year's champion team, Mount Carmel, Ill., was entered, but injuries sustained in a district tournament last Saturday necessitated withdrawal. Games will be played Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Monday.

Chicago School Meet.
CHICAGO.—The University of Chicago's twelfth annual interscholastic track and field meet, open to the high schools and academies of the nation, will be held at Stagg Field, Mar. 31. It was announced tonight. The meet last year drew 200 schoolboy athletes from all parts of the country.

Wise Counsellor And Sarazen 8-1 In Derby Books

First Quotations From Louisville Make St. James and Mad Play Second Choices.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 12.—The first future book on the Golden Jubilee Kentucky Derby, to be run over the historic Churchill Downs course on the afternoon of Saturday, May 17, has been announced by one of Louisville's most prominent layers of odds.

Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt II's unbeaten Sarazen and John J. Ward's Western champion, Wise Counsellor are made equal choice in the early betting, being quoted at 8 to 1. George D. Widener's St. James, the largest money-winning 2-year-old of last season, and Mad Play, the sterling broodmare of Hatter, from the Ranocosa Stable, are second choice, both being offered at 15 to 1.

Despite Black Gold's two winning efforts at New Orleans, he has been quoted rather liberally by the local bookies. His price at present writing is 25 to 1. The son of Black Toney is one of the wisecracks give more than an outside chance to finish first in the fiftieth renewal.

The longest shots in the early quoting are Desperate Desmond and Ho-Hick, each being offered at 200 to 1.

From time to time these odds will be changed, some of the prices will be cut and others advanced. At this early stage little if any betting has been made in the future books on the coming classic.

Following are the future odds on the Derby:

200 St. James 8-1
100 Sarazen 8-1
100 Wise Counsellor 8-1
100 Mad Play 8-1
100 Black Gold 15-1
100 Desperate Desmond 200-1
100 Ho-Hick 200-1
100 St. James 25-1
100 Sarazen 25-1
100 Wise Counsellor 25-1
100 Mad Play 25-1
100 Black Gold 25-1
100 Desperate Desmond 25-1
100 Ho-Hick 25-1

WRAY'S COLUMN

Frightening Dempsey.
BEATING Jack Dempsey is a feat enough for most men. But in fact, it isn't being done. But SCARING the gentleman, we maintain, is a lost art. It can't be done, because the beast isn't built that way.

Yet, Eddie Kane, manager of Tom Gibbons, intimates that the invincible Dempsey is frightened at the prowess of Tommy when he (Kane) says that Dempsey is running out of a return match with Gibbons.

For the benefit of those not acquainted with Dempsey, we may say that if there is any running out it will be done by Dempsey's manager, for financial reasons, and not by Dempsey because he fears Gibbons.

All those who sat at Shelby and saw Gibbons cling for dear life to Dempsey's terrible left knee that if there was a rabbit in the ring that day, it was not the world's champion.

Whatever else may be said of Dempsey, there isn't a particle of personal fear in his makeup. He is 100 per cent fighting animal.

In Due Time.
CHARLES HOLLOCHER, the shortstop of the Chicago Cubs, who thus far has failed to join his teammates at Catalina Island, said yesterday that he had no intention of rejoining his team, as reported in a dispatch, unless a settlement were reached with the club owners.

He added that he had not heard from the club officials for two weeks. We infer from Charles' stubborn front that he will see all concerned in a warmer climate—not California, either—before he will take first steps to restore the entente cordiale previously existing.

In fact, Charles says, he is not taking any steps of any sort other than to be consistent with perfect.

Firro Bout Set For Labor Day, Dempsey Says

Second Meeting of Heavyweights Will Be Held in Polo Grounds at New York.

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, March 12.—Joe Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, will defend his title against Luis Firpo, South American fighter, in New York on Labor Day, he announced after his arrival here last night.

The Argentine probably will be his only opponent this year, the champion said.

Decision to fight Firpo was reached at a conference with Jack Kearns, his manager, before he left New York, Dempsey said. The public wants the match made, he asserted.

"Most of the fans, naturally, would expect to see another match as we put up at the Polo Grounds, but it is seldom that the fights repeat in such fashion," Dempsey said. "I know Firpo's style of fighting now, and our meeting might not prove as interesting. By this I mean the fact that I will not see him going out of the ring as a result of one of Firpo's punches."

Wills and Gibbons Out. "If Firpo is beaten by Willie Gibbons, then naturally I would be compelled to fight the winner," the champion asserted.

"However, I understand Firpo will not engage in any fight until he meets me. Under such conditions it looks like a quiet season for me, but my picture work and about six weeks of hard training should leave me fit for the Firpo fight."

The champion, looking a bit paler and thinner as a result of his recent operation, was accompanied to Chicago by Promoter Floyd Fitzsimmons. He planned to leave once for Salt Lake City, to visit his parents before going on to the east, to engage in motion picture work for three months.

Thomas' Baptismal Certificate Forged, Church Official Tells Superintendent of Instruction

Document Had Been Accepted by Central High School Authorities as Proof That Star Athlete Was Eligible on the Score of Age to Represent the Institution.

The alleged baptismal certificate, setting forth the age of Bill Thomas, protested Central High star, as 19 years, has been pronounced a forgery by the ecclesiastical authority who was purported to have dated it, it was stated today on the authority of a high school principal.

Upon the basis of this certificate Central High authorities permitted Thomas to play during the football season when Central won its third tie on the Yale Bowl. The document recited that Thomas was born Nov. 2, 1904, when he had signed registration cards at Central High School previously, giving his birth date as Nov. 2, 1902, which would have made him over the league age limit of 20 years.

Central authorities then demanded that Thomas produce proof of his age. The document in question was then produced with the purported signature of a San Francisco, Cal., church official.

Denies Signing Certificate. The official came to St. Louis Monday and in the presence of Superintendent of Instruction John Madrox, said according to the principal information that he had not signed the document which bore his name, written in ink.

Corrigan Remains For Western Final

Wimer, Another Baseball Player, Also Available Against Bricklayers.

The exodus of baseball-soccer stars has never failed to hamper St. Louis teams that have entered the final for the national soccer championship, begins Sunday evening when George Corrigan, center forward of the Vesper team, departs for Fort Arthur, Tex., to join the St. Joseph club of the Western league.

Irwin Wimer, utility forward and halfback, will leave St. Louis Monday to join the Syracuse Club of the International league where he has played third base for two seasons.

Manager McCarthy of the Vespers had difficulty in obtaining permission from the club managers to permit the players to remain here for Sunday's game with the Bricklayers of Chicago.

Joe Mathas, a former St. Louis National, who played with McCarthy several years ago and was therefore aware of the necessity of Corrigan's remaining for the western final, which will be played at High School field.

The Vespers worked out last night at Sherman Park where John C. Meyers put them through training stunts to develop the wind. They will practice at High School field early tomorrow afternoon and will take their final workout Friday night at Sherman Park.

Manager McCarthy has the promise of Corrigan and Wimer that they will return to St. Louis at the appointed time to play the national final if the Vespers succeed against the Bricklayers.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, March 12.—The United States will be without the services of its first, second and possibly third ranking tennis players at the Olympic games. The announcement was made by William Tilden, the champion, who would be barred from competition by the rule against writing newspaper men, followed a statement by William Johnston, team captain, that he would be unable to join the team. Vincent Richards may be affected by the rule which barred Tilden.

Cards' Pitchers Hold Dodgers in First Real Test

Haynes, Dyer, Frankhouse and Delaney Hold Brooklyn to Two Runs.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch. BRADENTOWN, Fla., March 12.—Under near-Klondike weather conditions the Cardinals yesterday provided better battles than the Brooklyn Dodgers and won the first real big league exhibition game in the South, 12 to 2. Four pitchers, with Jesse Haines of the Cards as the only veteran, tolled for each club. Those delegated for duty by Manager Robinson showed little or nothing, while Haines, Dyer, Frankhouse and Delaney were working in good form, despite the cold.

So far as the result went, the game was over in the last half of the first inning. Blades drew a pass off young southpaw McPhie, late of Canada, to start. Douthitt singled to left, after which Hornsby walked. Mueller fouled out, but Bell's hit to left counted Blades. Then up strode Howard Freigau with a clean clout to the tourists' camp in deep center. This was good for the entire way around and the game was on.

Dyer Strong in the Pinch. The other scoring of Cardinals was done in the fifth when they garnered a pair off Schreiber and collected four more in the sixth. In the fifth the Dodgers counted once off Dyer, but the Rice Institute star proved his gameness when he fanned Loftus with the sacks crowded.

Frankhouse yielded a run in the sixth, but only because George Toles committed the only fielding fiasco of the game, after two were out. Neils followed with a hit which scored Klugman with the second and last Brooklyn run.

Frankhouse went three innings and allowed two hits, while Arthur Delaney, last year with Duquesne, worked the ninth frame faultlessly.

Bell, with three hits, and Freigau and Douthitt with two apiece led the offensive, the most valuable wallop, of course, being Freigau's first-inning homer.

Three double plays were turned by the Cardinals, one of them being an unassisted one by Bottomley, who got in the game in the later stages.

Boston comes over here tomorrow for another struggle.

TIE MAY BE BROKEN IN AMATEUR CUE TOURNEY

CHICAGO, March 12.—The tie between Dr. R. N. Roscoe of Baltimore and Dr. Andrew Harris of the Chicago A. A. for leadership in the national amateur three-cushion billiard championship may be broken today when they meet separate opponents.

Dr. Roscoe plays Otto Spielman, Chicago A. A., and Dr. Harris meets Robert Lord, Illinois A. C. national champion, Chicago A. A.

Tonight's matches will be between Louis Vogler, Indianapolis A. C., and E. R. Wainwright, Pittsburgh, and F. I. Fleming, Chicago, and Earl Patterson, Chicago A. A.

In yesterday's games Lord lost to Vogler, 50 to 43 in 70 innings. Harris won over Spielman, 50 to 28 in 80 innings. Fleming beat Wainwright, 50 to 22 in 66 innings, and Lord defeated Patterson, 50 to 42 in 80 innings. Lord made a high run of seven in the last game.

Swedish Olympic Hurdle Star Sets New U.S. Record

Christierson Lowers 60-Yard Time Two-Fifths of a Second at New York.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, March 12.—Abel Christierson repeated a triumph of seven years ago when he captured the 1000-yard title at the Metropolitan A. A. U. championship games in Madison Square Garden last night. The veteran distance runner of the Wilco A. C. of New York defeated a field, which included Willie Goodwin and Jack Sellers of the N. Y. A. C. and Mike Devaney of the Millrose A. A., and several other star middle distance men.

In a most marked by two new indoor records, several new record performances and excellent competition throughout the N. Y. A. C. captured the team championship. The records came in the 60-yard high hurdles, when Carl Christierson traveled the course in 73.5 seconds, two-fifths of a second better than the old mark, and in the girls' 440-yard relay, won by the City Bank A. C. four in 54.2 seconds, beating the old record of two-fifths of a second. Christierson will represent Sweden in the Olympic games.

Loren Murchison of the Newark A. C. duplicated his double triumph in the national championships by winning both 60 and 300 yards in 32.1-5 seconds, with Jackson Scholz of the N. Y. A. C. second in the girls' 440-yard event in 63.5 seconds, with Scholz again in the role of runner-up.

The outstanding surprise of the meet came when Robert Beattie of Princeton captured the 16-pound shotput from Orville Wanger, national champion. Beattie's winning put was 46 feet 2 inches.

"Bar Carbone for the Rest of His Natural Life" Board Demands

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, March 12.—The New York State Athletic Commission today was requested by the Louisiana State Boxing Commission to suspend Frankie Carbone, New York middleweight, "for the rest of his natural life," following Carbone's failure to fulfill a contract to meet an opponent in New Orleans last week.

This action was requested after the Louisiana commission had suspended Carbone permanently. The New York board, however, in the absence of more details concerning the offense, refused to concur.

It was charged that Carbone appeared in New Orleans a few days before the scheduled match, trained in a gymnasium near the fight club and gave the promoters every indication that he was ready to fight. He did not appear on the night of the fight, however, and was not located until the next day.

BARTLESVILLE MAY SURRENDER FRANCHISE

By the Associated Press. BARTLESVILLE, Ok., March 12.—Bartlesville may be forced to withdraw from the Western Association as a result of failure to raise $3500 to defray training expenses, and to liquidate indebtedness incurred by the club while a member of the Southwestern League, it became known here today. If the money is not raised within another week club owners said they will ask the association at its meeting at Hutchinson, Kan., March 17, to transfer the franchise to another city.

Stecher to Name First Opponent in Ring Tonight

Former Champion Will Endeavor to Throw Both Gardini and Jim London.

Although Jimmy London and Renato Gardini both participated in wrestling matches at Memphis last night, they will endeavor at the Coliseum tonight to prove to former Champion Joe Stecher that he cannot throw both the same evening, as he declared he could.

Joe, protesting last week against a match between Lewis and London then in the making, challenged both men to meet him in the same ring the same night. The wrestlers accepted and the promoter, Tom Packs, made arrangements to put on this show, even going so far as to call off a match between Champion Ed Lewis and London, that had been arranged for the same night.

Tonight's match will see Joe's confidence put to the test. Stecher said that he had demanded that both men appear in the ring ready for immediate action and that he would then make his choice for the first fall.

Following is the complete program for the evening: Main Event—Joe Stecher, Dodge, Neb., vs. Jimmy London of Greece and Renato Gardini of Italy, heavyweights. Stecher will try to pin down both men in the same ring within two hours.

Semi-Indep.—Josef Gorkawek, Poland, vs. Dick Daviscourt, Wichita, Kan. heavyweights. One fall. Time limit, one hour.

Curtain-raiser—"Speedy" Schaefer, Alton, Ill., vs. George Tracas, Columbus, Mo., middleweights. One fall. Time limit, thirty minutes.

Referee—Main event, John C. Meyers. Preliminaries, Joe Sanderson. Announcer—Joseph G. "Bizz" Kennedy.

CLOSE IRREGULAR ON STOCK MARKET; FRANCS HIGHER

Trade on Stock Exchange a Lifeless Affair—Railroad Issues Up Early—Bonds
Are Steady but Quiet.

By Bureau of the Post-Dispatch
NEW YORK, March 12.—The stock market today was a lifeless affair, with trading confined to a few issues. The market was generally steady, with a slight upward movement in railroad issues and a slight decline in bonds. The volume of trading was light, and the market was characterized by a lack of interest.

French franc continued to rise in the foreign exchange market, reaching a new high of 135.50 for 100 francs. This was due to a combination of factors, including a decline in the dollar and a general upward movement in the franc. The market was also affected by news of a new French loan, which was expected to be issued in the near future.

Another slump occurred in the steel market today, with prices for various grades of steel falling. This was due to a combination of factors, including a decline in demand and a general downward movement in the market. The market was also affected by news of a new steel plant, which was expected to be completed in the near future.

COOLIDGE ORDERS INQUIRY OF FORCE ENFORCEMENT AT CAPITAL

Haynes Asked for Basis of Charges That Washington Is the "Wettest City."

WASHINGTON, March 12.—An effort to settle the question of the effectiveness of prohibition enforcement in Washington has been ordered by President Coolidge as a result of the charges by Rear Admiral Charles P. Plunkett, commander of the Brooklyn navy yard, that the capital is "the wettest city in the United States."

The President, upon learning of Admiral Plunkett's statements during a police trial at New York, immediately summoned Prohibition Commissioner Haynes to the White House and instructed him to find out if the Brooklyn commandant had been correctly quoted and, if so, to ascertain the basis of his information and initiate an investigation looking to correct the alleged condition in the capital.

The Brooklyn navy commandant was reported in press dispatches published yesterday as having testified that Washington was "the wettest city in the United States," and that if all the lawyers and all the judges in the country were to give up their entire time for a year, they could not check the sale of liquor that would not make a dent in prohibition.

The investigation directed comes as another chapter in a controversy which has been going on for several months surrounding the enforcement of prohibition in Washington. Charges and counter-charges have been made, complaints against prohibition enforcement officers have been filed by the Washington police, and the matter was brought sharply to the attention of Federal officials by the shooting, last month, of Senator Greene of Vermont in a pistol battle between suspected bootleggers and prohibition agents on Pennsylvania avenue within a few blocks of the Capitol.

REPORT THAT VATICAN WILL SETTLE DISPUTE WITH ITALY

London Paper Says Pope Is to Remain Independent Sovereign Under Guarantee of League.

LONDON, March 12.—The Daily Express gives prominence today to a statement to the effect that the dispute between the Vatican and the Italian Government is about to be settled, and that in consequence the Pope no longer will consider himself a prisoner in the Vatican.

The terms of the agreement by which the trouble will be ended, says the newspaper, are, first, the Vatican to surrender to the Italian Government the right of the Pope to hold only a part, second, the government to build at its own cost a palace, or a series of houses, for the accommodation of the Cardinals, the Holy See in return handing over to the Government scattered properties throughout Rome in which the Cardinals now are housed, and third, the independent voice of the Pope to be guaranteed by the League of Nations.

The statement adds that under the agreement the Pope will remain an independent sovereign, the Vatican Hill will have the status of an independent country.

ARRESTED ON SWINDLE CHARGE

Man Traded Here From Murphysboro, Ill., by Deputy Sheriff.

A man walked up to Detective Sergeant Sipple at Eighth street and Washington avenue last night and asked him to arrest another man who was a few feet away. After hearing the reason for the request, Sipple, made the arrest. The prisoner identified himself as Floyd E. Deal, 29, of the Majestic Hotel. The man who brought about his arrest was William O. Greer of Murphysboro, Ill., a Special Deputy Sheriff. Greer held a warrant charging Deal with operating a confidence game at Murphysboro and swindling him of $500. Greer added that another resident of Murphysboro, Joseph Darawash, had been swindled of $200 in similar fashion. Greer had trailed Deal to St. Louis and had him arrested at the first opportunity.

Deal waived extradition papers and accompanied Greer back to Murphysboro last night. He made no statement to police here.

The Coliseum, which is estimated to seat almost 12,000 persons, was packed with the exception of a small section at the south end when John Randall Dunn, formerly first reader of the First Church of Christ Scientist here, gave a lecture on "Christian Science, the Solution of the World's Problems."

The lecture lasted about an hour and 25 minutes. The lecturer, standing before a new sounding board, was heard well even by those sitting behind and above him. It was reported Dunn went to Boston in 1916 to become a member of the board of lecturership, later became first reader of the Mother Church, and last June returned to the board of lecturership.

RUSSIA INSISTS IN PART IN MEMEL NEGOTIATIONS

Soviet Gives Notice It Will Not Recognize Decision in Which It Has No Voice.

MOSCOW, March 12.—On the eve of the League of Nations attempt through Norman H. Davis and his commission, to settle the dispute between Poland and Lithuania over Memel, the Soviet government has made official declaration that it will not consent to the disposition of territory in Northern Europe without participating in the settlement.

Foreign Minister Tchitcherin, in a note to all members of the league, protests against the possibility of solving the Memel question by means of "one-sided" reservations and advantages to "third party" and also against any discussion of the Polish-Lithuanian border without Soviet participation. Russia declared she will never recognize a decision in which she has no voice. A separate note in similar terms was sent to Lithuania.

GENEVA, March 12.—Poland has sent an official protest to the council of the League of Nations against the plan of the commission Davis for a year ago, to settle the settlement of the Memel dispute, but Davis, adhering to his program, will present the commission's plan at a public session of the council. Poland contends that her transportation rights down the Niemen River, while flows through Poland before it empties into the Baltic at Memel, are inadequately protected. She demands that clauses be inserted in the treaty authorizing her to proceed with penalties in Lithuania, to whom the Davis treaty gives Memel in full, sovereignty, should later discriminate against Polish commerce.

WILLS BULK OF $50,000 ESTATE TO WOMAN FRIEND

Louis Stapelfeld, 88, in Previous Testament Had Not Mentioned
"Good and Faithful Friend."

The bulk of the $49,000 estate of Louis Stapelfeld, retired grocer, who died March 2 at the age of 88 at his home, 3241 St. Vincent avenue, is bequeathed to his "good and faithful friend," Mrs. Sophronia Barringer, widow, about 42 years old, in a will filed today. Mrs. Barringer resides on the second floor of the St. Vincent avenue property, which the testator owned.

The will, filed by Eugene J. McMahon, an attorney, who is named executor, is dated April 24, 1922, and specifies that Mrs. Barringer is to get the residue of the estate after Gas P. and Emma Kaechelin, niece and nephew, are given $500 each.

Miss Kaechelin instituted proceedings in Probate Court last June to have Stapelfeld declared of unsound mind and early today Edward P. Lucking being appointed his guardian. The action was opposed then by Mrs. Barringer through McMahon.

Last week Lucking filed a will by Stapelfeld, dated June 22, 1912, in which Mrs. Barringer was not mentioned. $2000 was left to German religious organizations and the residue to relatives. Lucking was named executor.

The Probate Court has not passed on either will.

BOARD OF EDUCATION FAILS TO NAME MASON'S SUCCESSOR

Conference of Members to Reach Agreement Likely—New School Named.

The Board of Education last night failed, for the second time within a month, to name a successor to the late Charles P. Mason as secretary-treasurer of the board. A conference of all members is to be held soon, however, at which it is believed an agreement may be reached on a man for this $2200 position.

The principal applicants are H. W. McNamee, acting secretary-treasurer, P. M. Dwyer, board supervisor, commissioner, and Harry F. Schoellmeyer, chief clerk to the Commissioner of Buildings.

The board passed a resolution enjoining Mason, who was secretary-treasurer for 15 years, to other action included naming the proposed school for crippled children the Elias Michael School in honor of the St. Louis merchant, and former board member, whose widow, Mrs. Rachel Stix Michael, is now on the board. The report of the Committee on Finance and Instruction, which recommended the appointment of a successor to Mason, was adopted.

DECISION ON INTOXICATION

Iowa Ruling Makes Possible Ban on Lash's Bitters.

DES MOINES, Ia., March 12.—Whenever a man is under the influence of liquor so as not to be entirely himself he is intoxicated, the Iowa Supreme Court decided yesterday in reversing a lower court decision which contended that Lash's Bitters were not intoxicating.

The high court ruled that "although he can walk straight, although he may attend to his business and may not give any outward or visual signs to the casual observer that he is drunk, yet, if he is under the influence so as not to be himself, so as to be excited from the influence of the bitters, he is intoxicated." The opinion holds that Lash's Bitters are intoxicating and makes it possible for local authorities to prohibit the sale of the liquor in Iowa.

Be Found in Treasury.

AUSTIN, Tex., March 12.—Dead men's money, totaling thousands, lies in the vaults of the State Treasury with no one to claim it and no place to spend it.

In 50 years more than $34,000 has accumulated, waiting for the coming of missing men and women. It has grown from the sum of $54.78, which was deposited in 1874, to the proportions of a small fortune.

"Escheated estates" and "settlement estates" are the entries in the State Treasury's books. The "escheated estates" are those of individuals who have died without heirs. "Settlement estates" are those of persons whose heirs could not be located. The estates without heirs have a total of $11,370.94, and those in which the claimants could not be found have $22,944.44 to their credit. This represents only a small portion of such funds that come into the State Treasury, as from time to time heirs are located or some one turns up to claim the money.

Among the stories that the plain figures do not reveal, is that of an old man who died in Northern Texas. He had been the father of a large family, all of whom except three had preceded him in death. The three children living had drifted away from the home in their youth and for years not one of them had ever written home, and made his whereabouts known. A considerable sum awaits these missing heirs.

FINED $100 FOR AUTO COLLISION

Man Who Hit Police Car Admits
He Had Been Drinking.

Aubrey Stone, 18 years old, of 8381 Theodore avenue, whose automobile collided with a police machine in which a Sergeant and two special officers, not in uniform, were riding Sunday afternoon at Vandeventer and Ashland avenues, was fined $100 today by Police Judge Matthews.

The policemen testified that after the accident Stone hesitated and then put on full steam ahead, getting such a start that he escaped and was arrested only by tracing the license number. Stone, on the stand, admitted he had had a few drinks that day.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Feb. 18.—Motor launches and houseboats belonging to foreigners have been prohibited from operating in Turkish waters in accordance with the Angora law restricting foreign ships. LABOR'S PACIFIST AIR POLICY SUSTAINED IN COMMONS

"Disarmament Our Watchword," But Country Will Not Be Rendered Defenseless.

LONDON, March 12.—William Leach, Great Britain's pacifist undersecretary of the Air Ministry, encountered considerable heckling when introducing the air estimates in the House of Commons yesterday. The 1924-25 estimated amount to £19,582,000 gross and £14,511,000 net.

The undersecretary began by setting at rest anxious misgivings who the Labor Government wanted more money for military aviation by explaining that the amount asked for did not mean an increase of armaments, but a decrease of armaments. Disarmament, he declared, was the Labor party had never urged disarmament for Great Britain in respect of what other countries might do, because that was not a practical proposition.

"International disarmament is our watchword," he said, "but it is not our purpose to render the country defenseless. Disarmament is desirable, but no country ever had it, and the more we try, the further away it seems to get."

He continued dramatically: "The Sermon on the Mount—the way is barred to us. Nevertheless, our motto remains, 'No more war,' and the Government is religiously seeking the good will of all the world."

Leach mentioned that the Government was experimenting largely with metal air craft and announced that the Government, which was anxious to develop civil aviation, had agreed to subsidize that branch of the flying industry to the amount of £1,500,000, extended over 10 years.

By March 1925, 18 squadrons would be ready for home defense out of 52 proposed within the next five years, he said. The Government had decided not to interfere with the previous Government's air program, but if any international move for a reduction of armaments came along, it would be free to accept it. British offers of air craft this year, he said, totaled £4,500,000.

The Conservative motion calling for "adequate protection against attacks by the strongest air force within striking distance of British shores," was defeated, 245 to 135.

REQUIREMENTS $10,000 TO U. S.

By the Associated Press.

LANCASTER, Pa., March 12.—A vote made by Wesley Jordan, 73 years old, a farmer, who died recently, that he would pay his "debt of gratitude" to the Government for liberty and happiness under the Stars and Stripes, will be fulfilled. Jordan's will, probated yesterday, provides that his property be converted into cash, and all other than his "burial expenses be given to the Treasurer of the United States. The estate is valued at $16,000.

CZECHO-SLOVAKIA'S TREATIES
HASTEN ECONOMIC RECOVERYCountry, Requiring Goods After War, Now In Need of Foreign Markets.

By radio to the Post-Dispatch and Chicago Daily News.

PRAGUE, March 12.—Czecho-Slovakia probably is a state which has done much toward hastening the return of normal conditions through treaties encouraging good neighborly relations.

with the few made by other countries. For example, Hungary has made only five or six. Czecho-Slovakia has concluded three political treaties, namely, with Jugoslavia, Rumania, and France. A treaty with Poland was ratified by Czecho-Slovakia, but remains unratified by Poland. It is said that the little entente agreement now has five years to run.

The Czechs and Germans are on good terms economically. Czech and German factories often pooling to purchase war materials. Germany is Czecho-Slovakia's second best customer, Austria being first. Czech influence is strong in Vienna. Czecho-Slovakia has made economic agreements with about 25 countries, most European, usually on the basis of the most favored nation. These treaties cover a multitude of questions, including tariff, transit, passports and consular offices.

Directly after the war there was a scarcity of goods and the problem was to conserve home products. Now the situation is reversed. There is need of foreign markets. This may require rewriting some of the treaties to hasten freer trade.

Best Sugar Industry Prospects.

By the Associated Press.
SALT LAKE CITY, March 12.—Prospects for the best sugar industry in 1924 are exceedingly bright, as good prices are being received and manufacturers are optimistic, according to Stephen H. Love, of this city, president of the United States Sugar Manufacturers' Association. "Production in 1923 was about 775,000 tons," he said, "and the 1924 tonnage should be around 825,000 tons."COMMITTEE ON

Raids Stolen From Office in Courthouse While Conference Is in Session.Organization of the St. Louis County Law Enforcement Committee was effected by a meeting of more than 200 men and women in one of the Circuit Court rooms at Clayton last night.

A resolution calling for formation of a committee of the organization to co-operate in any way possible with the Sheriff "and other law enforcement officers" was adopted. It is the intention to try to furnish officers with information of law violations and to lend moral support, also to urge citizens not to be evasive of jury service.

Trip suitcases of liquor samples taken as evidence in raids were stolen from the Prosecuting Attorney's office while the meeting was going on, furnishing a striking indication of need of law enforcement. The liquor was confiscated in Southeast Missouri raids by G. H. Force, a private investigator, who has been working with the County Prosecuting Attorney on liquor cases recently, and who had stored these samples in this office while in Clayton.

Officers of Committee.

J. K. Stewart of Valley Park was made chairman of the Law Enforcement Committee, Oliver Blackinton of Webster Groves, vice chairman; Mrs. J. H. Pierce of Kirkwood, secretary; and George R. Robinson of Kirkwood, chairman of the Finance Committee.

Prosecuting Attorney Adam Henry Jones delivered an address to the meeting, in which he said: "Malicious rumors have been circulated about my office. If you want to help, run these down at once or pay no attention to them. It always happens the minute a man takes office that his opponents will begin to cry 'graft.' When I came into office I promised I would try to clean up the county and be dominated by no group. I'm not dominated by any group, and that's one of the reasons for these rumors. Why, when I was in New York the rumor was circulated that I was in East St. Louis shooting craps."

Former Prosecutor Heard.

Arthur V. Lashly, a former Prosecuting Attorney, in an address on the general subject of law enforcement, mentioned Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Wilfred Jones by name, saying: "I believe he is doing good work in this office."

Wilfred Jones said that convictions had been obtained in "99 per cent" of the various indictments returned by the last grand jury that have come to trial. He named three Deputy Sheriffs who have been helpful in liquor cases and said the Constables and their deputies had been of little help.

John E. Mooney, who was an Assistant Prosecuting Attorney under Lashly, pleaded for an effort to stop "organized crime" without wasting time on petty matters. He said that he and Lashly had found an effective way of making one gambling resort unpopular. They took license numbers of automobiles parked there at night, called the owners in for public depositions and asked embarrassing questions. The individual gamblers quit for fear of publicity.

Tells of Liquor Raids.

Force, the investigator whose evidence was stolen, told how he had been working with the Prosecuting Attorney on prohibition violations. There were a number of other speakers.

Lashly, Blackinton and James Cook, chairman of the ex-Clean Election League Executive Committee, were appointed to pick a committee of five or seven to co-operate with the Sheriff and other officers. It is intended to have another meeting soon, and receive a report from the Resolution Committee.

Many business men and club women were among those present last night.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 12.—Capt. Charles Bubb of Kelly Field, San Antonio, won an airplane race against death to the bedside of his father by one hour.

Capt. Bubb left Kelly Field at 7:45 o'clock in the morning, after receipt of a message that his father was dying at Leavenworth, Kan. He arrived in Kansas City at 5:30 in the afternoon, a distance of about 725 miles, took a train for Leavenworth and arrived at the bedside of his father just an hour before he died.

There are a couple of months when the heavy overcoat is too much and no overcoat is not enough. We're in the light-weight overcoat days now.

One of the many gray mixtures, conservatively cut, is always proper. Many men prefer a little more dash in their Spring topcoats; a homespun or a Scotch tweed tailored in an easy-fitting English style; or a rain-proofed imported gabardine doesn't sacrifice anything in appearance for all its utility.

An occasional dose of
SYRUP PEPSIN
Keeps young girls fit

False Modesty Wrecks Health

THE young lady just assuming the responsibilities of a woman is very apt to be self-conscious of her physical functions, and in consequence neglect them. There is no time, however, when it is more important for her to look after them. Chief among her troubles is constipation, and her suffering will be serious when she gets older if she does not regulate her bowels now. Mrs. Mary Keller of 132 Benton St., St. Louis, Va., was perplexed about her daughter until her own druggist told her they used Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at his house, and she did likewise. Miss Irene Mazierska of 90 Peter St., Buffalo, N. Y., is glad her attention was called to Syrup Pepsin.

Safe for Young and Old

Let mothers with growing daughters interest themselves in this matter and see that their judgment is enforced. A rule followed by many is to take a spoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin once a week until the bowels function daily, and at such other times as there is headache, biliousness, sores and fever blisters, lack of energy and appetite, sleeplessness, indigestion.

A dose can be given in these conditions to any member of the family however young or old as Syrup Pepsin is a simple compound of Egyptian senna with pepsin and pleasing aromatics, and perfectly safe.

Public Recognizes Merit

You will quickly see the difference between a mild laxative like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and castor oil, or rough cathartics and physics. Syrup Pepsin acts gently and does not gripe. Increased doses are not necessary. A bottle can be had at any drug store, and a spoonful costs less than a cent. It has been successfully used for thirty years and is the largest selling liquid laxative in the world, over 10 million bottles having been sold in drug stores last year. Keep Syrup Pepsin in your medicine chest.

Not like a clam

CLAMS live to themselves. You can't. You link lives with your neighbor across the street, across the state, across the continent. You are influenced by what he wants, buys, uses, enjoys.

When enough of your neighbors want, buy, use, enjoy the same thing, you begin to see advertisements about it—advertisements to arouse you to similar use and enjoyment. They paint glowing, truthful pictures . . . try to get you interested in what will really interest you.

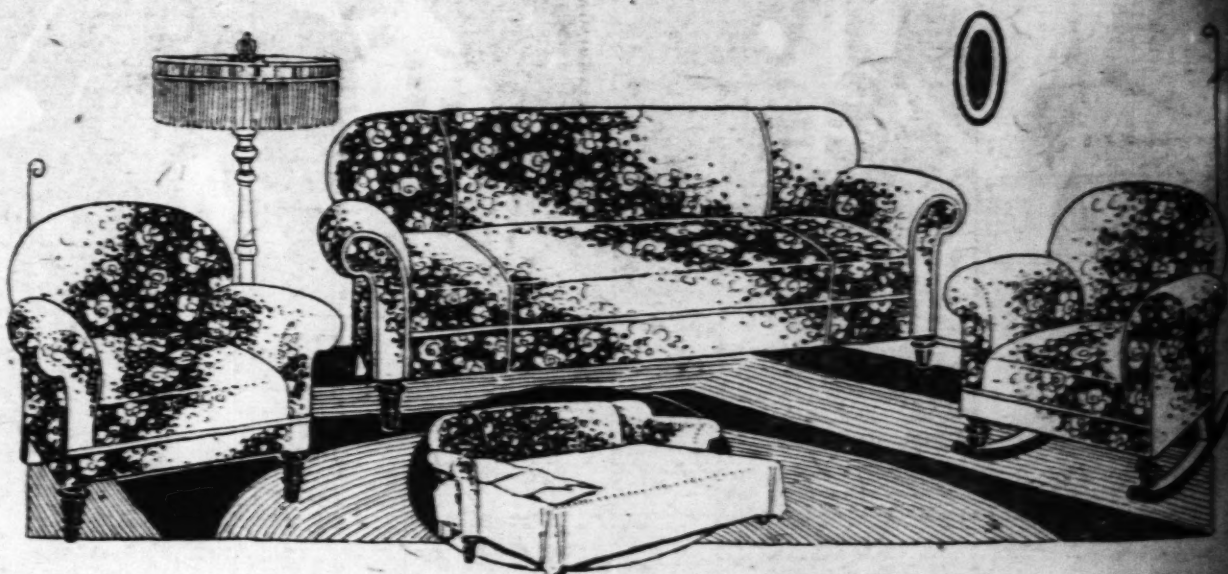

Convenient, courteous information is yours at a minute's glance. Style, variety, price, where obtained. That minute's glance may mean the difference between buying unworthy wares and the best.

You don't want to be like a clam—even in your judgments. Read the advertisements to be guided by others' choice. When they choose something again and again, it must be good.

THE REVELATIONS OF A PAID COMPANION

By JANE PHELPS

Author of "My Husband and I," "A Wife's Story," etc.

CHAPTER XXXI.

I TALK TO MOLLIE ABOUT LOVE.

"I CAN'T imagine you overstepping the bounds," Rush said after a moment.

"Why? Just because I am compelled to stifle all my natural longings. Because I am poor, a companion, is no sign I don't long for the gayness of life as much as do other girls of my age."

"I guess I had sort of put you on a pedestal," he smiled at me. "Thought you too—sensible to care for—"

"I hate being sensible—always," I exploded.

"I would like to dance and flirt, wear lovely clothes, be admired. There! now I feel better, got it out of my system. Now I'll be as sensible as you think I am and ask you to take me right back to Mrs. Ellwood."

I wouldn't let him see how ashamed I was of my outburst. I had tumbled off the pedestal all right, fallen with a crash.

"You are tired. We'll take a little spin, then home it is."

He stepped on the gas, and we didn't speak again until he bade me good-bye at the door.

I had made a fool of myself, and I had lied. I did not care for the sort of independence I had pretended. I felt no urge to drink, to go with a fast set, to do many of the things Mollie and her crowd did; but if Rush Millbank admired that sort I'd let him know it was in me to be like them.

It was childish, utterly foolish, but I was really hurt that Mollie would try to attract Rush, when she had so many admirers, even though I had no proof she had so tried.

And Rush! To my knowledge he never had been more than a friendly polite to Mollie, yet I had seen his eyes light with admiration as they followed her. Up to now I had thought it but admiration of the girl's beauty, her graceful form, her lovely face, for I had seen too, disapproval in his face when she excused herself from remaining with her mother, pleading an engagement.

But to spend an hour with my dear invalid brought me sanity. Her happy resignation dwarfed my puerile complaints and belittled my trivial sorrows. It taught me patience with life. I felt that my own troubles were as nothing when I was with her.

But I was young. Rush Millbank was the first man who had intrigued me, and I watched him and Mollie carefully trying to find out if my suspicions were correct. One thing disturbed me, Mollie's flirting. In my lexicon of love—having had no experience—to be in love was to disregard any and all save the object of one's affections. I said something of this in a casual way to Mollie.

"Oh, bosh!" she good-humoredly replied.

"One has to be a sport nowadays, have a little fun. Until a girl is married she keeps all her men friends. Some keep them afterward."

"I can't believe your mother was that kind of a girl."

Try as I would I could not visualize Mrs. Ellwood living according to Mollie's creed.

"Mother belonged to a different century. Girls in her day were different, men, too, if one is to believe what one hears and reads. All the people I know flirt a little; some a great deal. Have to keep up with the procession you know."

"But if you really loved someone would you flirt with others?"

I hesitated.

"Why not? A man thinks all the more of you if he thinks others want you."

"But doesn't it destroy his faith?"

"What a question mark you are, Rita. I shall begin to think you are in love with someone, and want me to tell you how to treat him." Mollie turned away with a short laugh, and I dared not question her further for fear she might suspect what I was driving at.

"I'm going out with Larry tonight, Rita. Guy is out also, so you'll please keep Dad company."

Her voice sounded weary, and I said:

"You look tired, Mollie, why not put Larry off and rest?"

A moment afterward I heard her in the hall, talking to Rush Millbank who had just left her mother.

"I haven't a minute," I heard her say.

"A devoted slave will be here to take me out before I am dressed."

THE RHYMING
OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

March and Spring.

WHEN the winds of March are blowing, when the tides of life are flowing back into each branch and stem. Nature, busy with glad changes with her winsome art arranges for the spring a diadem. She awakens pink and lilac, marigold and daffodil and she stirs the sleeping rose. By the jonquil's haunts she passes, whispers to the dreaming grasses: "It is time to end repose." Spring is like a lovely maiden as she visits earth all laden with her wealth of leaf and bud; with the bluebird and the plover, with the violet and clover, with life's every tide at flood. March is sometimes rough and chilly and March winds blow willy-nilly; but the sweet and gentle spring, heedless of his roar and bluster, brings the fragrance and the luster of her tender blossoming. Strange, the way that she dismisses him; sweet, the art by which she charms him. March, the tyrant, gruff and grim; long before his time is over she had made him friend and lover, bowing to her slightest whim. For the primrose rally dances and the robin weaves romance in the song he sings his mate, as the spring trips on beguiling March, the ruffian, into smiling at her flowery pomp and state. So, though March comes sneaking, snowing, with his wildest north wind blowing and his voice a roar's roar, fear not, soon the verdant grasses will be springing where he passed, where the dust lay dry before. For young spring can so enchant him that her bloom will soon supplant him, and the buttercup and rose will be nodding to the thistle, dancing to the robin's whistle before March, the gambler, goes!

SAYINGS OF MRS. SOLOMON

By HELEN ROWLAND

THE Prayer of a Wise Woman, which is Mrs. Solomon's:

O Lord, in Thy mercy, grant me this one thing—the power to hold my TONGUE!

Deny me wit, if need be; yea, stay from trying to be "funny," for an epigram in the mouth of a woman is as vinegar to the teeth of a man. But she who speaketh in pleasant platitudes, and whose words are sweeter and more innocuous than a maple-sundae, shall never lack a listener.

Keep me from the temptation to tell a man "all about myself," for half a man's love is curiosity. And a woman is as a guessing contest, wherein he loathes all interest when he hath found the "answer."

I ask not great beauty, neither perfect ankles; but only give me self-control, that I may keep my lips close amidst the multitude. For a little "talking-machine" at a party is a terrible thing!

Stay me from the impulse to "confess" my frailties to my beloved. For confessions are as strong wine, exhilarating for the moment, but followed always by remorse. And that which a man forgiveth, when he is tender, he useth as a weapon when he is wrath.

Restrain me from the rash desire to confide my secrets unto the sympathetic woman friend; for in time of boredom, these make "interesting conversation"—and what woman can resist that lure?

Keep me, O Lord, from the folly of discussion and the madness of ARGUMENTS. For a woman's arguments fall upon a man's ears as water upon a cat. He waiteth only for them to "dry up," and there up goeth his OWN way.

Stay me, I beseech Thee, from the foolish yearning to express mine opinions; for that which a man seeketh from a woman is not "opinions," but applause.

From the desire to "answer back," oh, deliver me! For the struggle to have the "last word" is the brand that keepeth the homelife hot, and what profiteth it a woman though she win her point and lose her man?

Keep me, yea, keep me from the temptation to tell my beloved the TRUTH about himself! For that which a man calleth "refreshing frankness" before marriage, he calleth "ragging" afterward.

Verily, verily a woman's eyes are the weapon wherewith she vanquisheth hearts; but her tongue is a weapon wherewith she cutteth her own throat.

This dainty one-piece knitted dress in brown mixture and blue stripes is one of spring's smartest modes.

The popularity of pleats is self-evident here they are used most liberally in a dress of black satin formed into this beautiful crepe, banded with a broad sash of moire ribbon in gold and white in Mandarin style.

HEROINES OF HISTORY

Significant Incidents in the Lives of Famous Women.

By MARK STUYVESANT

Daughter of One General; Wife of Another

THERE is no more picturesque figure in the early history of the United States than that of Ethan Allen, known as the Colonel of the "Green Mountain Boys." He was bold, fearless, a true patriot and leader. It was under his leadership that the State of Vermont took its place among the first of the Colonies to resist the oppression of Great Britain. And it was Ethan Allen who, when he captured Fort Ticonderoga, demanded the surrender "in the name of God and the Continental Congress."

Ethan Allen was known far and wide in the Colonies for his audacity and valor. He was one of those men about whom people loved to talk, mentioning incidents in his life and extraordinary traits in his character. It was said that while he was a prisoner in the Tower of London he had "bit off a ten-penny nail."

So, after his return, it was only natural for a romantic young lady, living in Westminster, Vt., to announce at an evening party that she "would like, above all things to see this Mr. Allen, of whom we hear such incredible things."

"This Mr. Allen" heard of this desire on the part of the 13-year-old aristocrat—for she was the daughter of a British General of high standing—and arranged that he should be taken to call on her.

So Ethan Allen was escorted to the home of Frances Brush and duly presented to her. He was much older than she, but it was a mutual liking which resulted from the evening's conversation.

A charming picture has been described when this bold hero of his State rose to leave late in the evening. As he shook hands with his young hostess and bent his tall figure over her hand, a smile flitted across his stern face as he asked:

"And now, Miss Brush, allow me to ask, how do you like 'this Mr. Allen'?"

As it happened, Miss Brush liked "this Mr. Allen" so well that when shortly after this incident he proposed marriage to her, she accepted his offer without hesitation.

Although Frances had been brought up in the most loyal of British families and her father had fought for the crown, she was quick to realize the injustice of the relations between her mother country and its American Colony. So it was not very difficult for her to become a convert to the rights of liberty and share the struggle in which her husband played such an important part.

She was Ethan Allen's adviser, and it was said that without her help—for her mind was unusually brilliant—he could not have worked out the many problems and difficulties which fell to his lot to solve and overcome.

After Ethan Allen's death, Mrs. Allen married a Dr. Penniman, of Colchester, Vt., where she lived until her death.

In New England there are many Allens and Pennimans who are the descendants of Frances Allen, who are—as they may well be—proud of their ancestor who took such an active part in developing their country when it was young and laying a foundation of the great nation which it is today.

Every scratch in the hand is not a stab to the heart, nor does every false opinion make a heretic.

"Everything About the House Helps to Modernize the Home Brings in Domesticity."

WITH the disappearance of the old general housework, and the entrance of the specialist into domestic service there has come about a revolution in the work of the household. At first the older housekeepers fought the idea, then submitted a bit timidly, but now they are the most enthusiastic in its adoption.

Many changes in city and suburban life have made the helper who works by the hour a big boon. Space is at a premium and rents are high, so a maid's room is an extravagance. In many apartments the maid comes in time to make breakfast and leaves as soon as the dinner dishes are done. In other cases, she comes to get breakfast, straightens up the apartment or house and leaves, returning in time to prepare dinner if desired.

WINIFRED BLACK

—Tells Us About the—
Sweets of a Second Courtship

LUBIN and Phoebe are making the most of life, indeed. "Wooded and married and all," they found life dull, or too interesting as it was, and began suit for divorce. But that was not at all what they wanted and they changed their plans, threw the divorce proceedings out of the window and now they are courting again in the City of the Angels, where the movies grow and life is again a grand, sweet song.

The two live in different houses and only occasionally does the lady ask the man of her heart to dinner. He calls for her and takes her to a party, goes home with her and leaves at her door and goes home to his own apartment.

Flowers come with the regularity of the sun—every day, and the violets to the lady have a subtle fragrance all their own.

Once in awhile a fine, well-groomed automobile draws up at the door and takes my lady out for a drive or a shopping tour with no man in sight, but well she knows where the machine comes from.

There is hope in the air but the pair are not going to leap into matrimony again. Once they found it too easy, and this time they are bound to have the sweetness of courtship and all of its glamour whatever may happen in the future.

He is Fondly Hoping. Madame has not promised what she will do, and the man in the case is fondly hoping, hoping for the day to come when the golden chain of wedlock may again bind the two together, but as yet he says little but shows only by his demeanor that his hopes are high.

Some of the neighbors say it is too much, this second courtship and prospective second honeymoon, and all by the same people. But the happy life goes on and no one can tell why it may not come out well, like the last chapter in an old-fashioned story which turns out as it ought to turn out, leaving two lovers "happy ever after."

Why is it not a sensible experiment, the second courtship of two who have grown to not quite appreciate each other and who find life dull and unentertaining?

There should be advantages in the courtship of two who know each other well. The man could understand the colors, the scents and taste for sweets of his former wife, and she would know just how to please him. Only, the two must remain apart with the strictness of the law.

The familiarity of married life must be forgotten and the de-lighted independence of the single life recalled.

When They Are Sure.

Some day, when the two are sure of themselves, they will again try the matrimonial life and everyone who knows them hopes to see them happy in their own way. It is a bold experiment and it takes a certain amount of courage and much fancy and imagination to go through this experience.

But isn't it almost too much, two courtships and all of the roses and violets of life over again for the two who love each other alone!

FASHION FRILLS

Dresses are growing shorter. The average length now in Paris is four inches below the knee, but a somewhat uneven hem line now and then makes this higher at one side and lower at the other.

Brides at fashionable weddings in London now are sometimes wearing their veils over their faces. The wedding gown usually has the train evolving from a side drapery on one hip.

There is no need for any tailored suit, however sombre in color, to blush unseen when these brilliant baile scarves are ready with first aid. You know the scarf on each side of the neck, beneath the ear.

Costume slips are becoming more and more elaborate. Some of them observed are almost dance frocks of lovely brocade, trimmed with lace or galloon.

A graceful new top coat has a short cape as one feature and collars and cuffs of pleated self material is another. The collar stands out and up much like a medieval ruff.

For motoring, and for other sports, there is a chic little hat of red kid, in something between a turban and a jockey cap effect.

Making a Bed Properly

Do you know how to make a bed so that it looks neat and is comfortable to sleep in? It is an art worth learning, says the United States Department of Agriculture. First, straighten the mattress pad so that it lies smooth and without wrinkles. Over this, spread the under sheet, right side up, with the wide hem at the head and the center of the sheet to the center of the bed. The comfort of a bed depends in a large measure on tucking in the under sheet so securely that it remains smooth and straight. Making mitered corners is one of the best ways of doing this, and any person who has had nurses' training can quickly show you how to make them. Next, put on the upper sheet, right side down, allowing for a generous turnover at the head, tuck it in at the foot, using mitered corners. Then, put on the blankets so that their top edge comes about nine inches below the head of the bed, turn the upper sheet back and tuck in all edges. Last of all, put on the spread, draw it smooth and straight, and arrange the pillows.

ECONOMY PUDDING.

Two cups stale bread, 1 egg, 1/2 cup milk, 1 package dates, stoned and chopped; 1 tablespoon sugar, grated nutmeg. Soak the bread in hot water for half an hour and then squeeze the water from it through a strainer. Mix with the dates. Grease a pie pan and put this mixture in it, allowing well to the pan. Beat the egg, add the milk and sugar. Pour over the bread and dates and add nutmeg, if desired. Bake until the custard has set. This pudding can be served hot or cold, and a sauce can be added if desired.

Children's Bedtime Story

By Thornton W. Burgess

Getting Settled.

Enough's enough, and noise is he Who is content that this shall be.

—Nanny Meadow Mouse.

NEVER had the Green Meadow Mouse seen more excited little people than were Danny and Nanny Meadow Mouse and their five children on their return from spending the winter in the Sunny South. At least it was the return of Danny and Nanny. The five children were born in the great man-bird way down in the Sunny South and never had known any other home. So they were as excited as their father and mother.

You remember that they had all left the great man-bird while the aviator and his cousin, Farmer Brown's Boy, were greeting each other. Finally Farmer Brown's Boy happened to remember that Danny and Nanny had been taken away in the great man-bird in the fall. "How long did you keep those two Meadow Mice?" he asked.

"I've brought them back with me!" exclaimed his cousin. "And what is more, I've brought back five more. They were born in the airplane. Come over and I'll show them to you."

So they went back to the airplane and the aviator rapped on the side of the little cupboard in which Danny and Nanny had made their home. Of course, no one came out, because no one was inside. "That's queer," exclaimed the aviator, and slipped his hand inside. He felt all around, and such a funny look as crossed his face. "They're not here!" he exclaimed. "What do you know about it, they're not here! Those little scamps must have climbed out while we were talking. I wonder if they knew that they were back home. Perhaps we'll find them back in their nest in the morning."

But they were not found in their nest in the morning. Danny and Nanny had had all the flying that they wanted. Such a busy night as they had put in; first they had had to run along all their private paths just for the sake of seeing them again. Some of those little paths were already hard to get to. In many the new grass had already begun to spring up.

First they had to run along all their private little paths.

"My, my!" exclaimed Danny, "we've got to get to work right away. It will never do to have these little paths in this condition."

"But first," declared Nanny, "we've got to have a home."

"I suppose we can go back in the great man-bird until we get a new home ready," ventured Danny.

"No, sir! No, sir!" exclaimed Nanny. "We are never going into that great man-bird again! I might carry us off just as it did before, and then might never bring us back again. Now that I am back I am never, never going to leave here again."

So Danny and Nanny went hunting for a place for a new home, and the five children obediently followed them. In a fence corner they found a pile of cornstalks. They made a passage under this pile until they reached the middle. "This will do until we can find a better place. It will do very nicely," declared Nanny.

Danny agreed, and they went to work at once. All night they worked and by the time jolly, round, bright Mr. Sun began his daily climb up in the blue, blue sky they had a new home under the pile of cornstalks. Nanny sighed happily as at last she curled up to rest. "There is no place like home, is there, Danny?" she squeaked. Danny agreed that there is no place like home.

You choose fine toilet soap for your hands ~

Yet in the dishpan they are exposed to kitchen soap an hour and a half every day

HOW many times a day do you wash your hands—ten—fifteen? Each time it takes you two or three seconds—and every time you wash your hands you use mild toilet soap.

Then, when you do dishes what happens? You take your bar of kitchen soap—and in its harsh, drying suds you keep your hands an hour and a half every day! Much longer than you spend washing them with your fine toilet soap. Of course your hands get rough and red.

Use Lux for washing dishes. Lux won't dry the important oils that keep your skin smooth and supple. These pure flakes are as easy on your hands as fine toilet soap.

4 teaspoonfuls a day
Just toss a single teaspoonful of Lux into your dishpan. Turn on the hot water.

One teaspoonful for lunch or breakfast dishes—maybe two for the dinner dishes. At most only four teaspoonfuls a day!

Keep the big new package on your kitchen sink—then you won't have to bring the regular size Lux from the bathroom. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

The line I am compelled to draw
At Nellie's Apron, Arkansas.

ECHO FROM TERRAPIN RIDGE.
I'd rather live in Greenville,
Where the path we walk is straight;
And perhaps it may be narrow
But we don't approach the gait
That is traveled in St. Louis,
Nor our cemetery fill
In this village in Bond County
Like they do in Herrin, Ill.

ON THE 5:15.
A WEED BENDER, the name is right,
Has really started a wonderful fight,
For Kirkwood is so far away
If you ever get there you're bound to stay.

WE hold no brief for Kirkwood, Mo.,
Where mushrooms in profusion grow;
But Kirkwood's not so far away
And the 5:15 runs every day.

THEY DON'T.
Branch Rickey is of the opinion
That bootlegging and base running Don't mix.

To the end that the ubiquitous Bootlegger be banished from Bradentown, Branch will invoke the aid of Judge Landis. The Judge's chores are multiplying day by day.

During his off moments, if any,
he might sit in on the Teapot Dome game.

See where the Cardinals have failed to answer Milton Stock's letter. Indicating that Branch is behind in his correspondence.

We understand there is a tariff of $1 per case on protected beer.

Teapot Dome may crowd the income tax bill off the front page, but Constant Reader will find it if it is anywhere in the paper.

He is also making notes and keeping a record of what is being done for future reference.

SHOULDN'T WONDER.
We have an idea that Constant Reader, Vox Populi and Pro Bono Publico are just a wee bit fed up on Teapot Dome and would like a little action on last year's tax reduction.

The sound of human heart beats in St. Louis can be heard over the radio in Texas. Anybody with a craving for heart throbs is invited to tune in.

Next thing two souls with but a single thought can have same broadcast from where they sit to Honolulu.

Looks like the Democrats have decided to keep Senator Reed in the Senate a while longer.

"No suh, I se a Republican."

FAVORITE STORIES

By Irvin S. Cobb.

BOTH RELATING TO POULTRY.

This one is an old favorite of mine, and possibly because I have been hearing it for so many years.

Late at night a farmer was aroused by drowsy cacklings on the part of his hens. Arming himself, he slipped forth and, suddenly rapping on the door of the poultry house, he cried out:

"Who's in there?"

There was a pause and then a quavering Afro-American voice spoke:

"Tain't nobody in yere 'ceptin' jest us chickens."

There is a companion story of this, of somewhat more recent vintage. A traveler, passing through a colored settlement, heard cries of anguish. Rounding a turn in the lane, he came upon a large, very black woman who unmercifully was belaboring a small wailing pickeninny.

"Wait a minute," said the stranger. "What's that boy done to deserve such a beating?"

"He's done done plenty," stated the woman, pausing the disciplining with hand uplifted. "He tuck an' left de chicken-coop do' open an' all de chickens got out an' run away."

"I wouldn't worry about it," said the gentleman, anxious to save the offender from further punishment. "You know how chickens are—they'll come back home."

"Come back?" Her voice rose to a pestered shriek. "Hah—they'll GO BACK!"

HEBER NATIONS TO HOLD JOB, HYDE SAYS

After Talk With Labor Commissioner, Governor Says He Has Learned of
No Reason to Fire Him.

Investigation by the intelligence unit of the Internal Revenue Department into the charge that protection was afforded to the manufacture and sale of real beer in St. Louis, is proceeding without regard to the political aspect of the case.

Heber Nations, State Labor Commissioner, has charged that the investigation started in a plot to remove his brother, Gus O. Nations, as Missouri field director of prohibition enforcement, and to bring control of the Republican State organization from Gov. Hyde.

P. de Hart, Federal Prohibition director for Missouri, who is unfriendly to Heber Nations, has made a counter-attack which appears largely political. E. Mont Rely, "Liv' Morse," "Hank" Weeks and other political personages are figuring in the discussion.

But the present inquiry did not have its origin in any political rivalries, and it is being carried on with no view toward serving party or factional interests. David No-man, St. Louis representative of the subcommittee, is in charge of the inquiry, which had its beginning last January in an order of Illinois Gov. Deneen, head of the unit in Washington. The intelligence unit threw itself with keeping clear of the personnel of the Federal Prohibition Enforcement Bureau.

Gov. Hyde, in Kansas City last night, repeated his announcement that he would retain Heber Nations in the office of Labor Commissioner for the present, but that if information is received later, or charges made, connecting him with protection, "the question of his successor will be decided immediately."

Nations to Go to Washington.
Nations in Jefferson City today said he intended to go to Washington within a few days, to lay before the Prohibition Enforcement department facts regarding the charges, and relating to enforcement conditions in Missouri.
He said the information was of "reserved character." Nations said he would be unable to leave for a day or two, because of the illness of the editor of the Jefferson City Daily Post, of which he is proprietor. He spent much of his time today at the office of the paper.

Nations in talking with the Governor in Kansas City yesterday, responded to him the charge, which he has made in a formal statement, of an attempt to wreck the Hyde administration and gain control of the State convention for the Butler-Morse forces.

"Nations came here to see me at his own instance," the Governor said in a Post-Dispatch reporter at Kansas City last night. "I had planned to meet him in St. Louis when he came to Kansas City instead of here."

"He knew I intended to demand a showdown, which meant either that he must be cleared of the information case, when his brother, Gus Nations, brought his name into this affair, or he would have to leave my administration."

"I was always what is called a statement by David Nolan, said he had no information or charges against Heber Nations. Nations declared that under no circumstances would he resign, as he believed this would be interpreted as an admission of weakness.
There was nothing before me on which to act, so I suspended judgment."

"Once making this decision, I have been told that Nolan accused the statement accorded to him and printed here, and when I asked, I will endeavor to find out later from Nolan what he said. For the present the matter will rest where it is, so far as I am concerned."

"As I pointed out earlier, Nations is in the city, and is con-
